WE NOMINATE

George Rea Cook III, a lifelong resident of the Princeton Area and since 1963 Chairman of the Board of the 134-year old Princeton Bank and Trust Company, who this past weekend was cited by the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council as the seventh recipient of its now annual Man-of-The-Year Award—one of the highest general distinctions the Princeton Community can confer upon a Princetonian. The 64-year old banker was recognized for "his achievements as a a creative and dedicated individual, his major role in helping shape Princeton Today, and his sharing with others a message ever provocative in content and affirmative in spirit."

In his remarks of acceptance at The Princeton Inn before a gathering of 250 persons, Cook with characteristic forthrightness advocated "active support of intelligent planning - both local and regional" and "abandonment of an obstructionist point of view" when it comes to the preservation of Princeton and its surroundings. In substance, he was endorsing, and warmly, the aims of the newly launched Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, an independent citizens' planning organization which believes strongly that the characteristics of the Princeton Area as an educational, research, cultural and residential center should be enhanced through the establishment of public goals cutting across political boundaries.

Cook, associated with the Princeton Bank and Trust for the past 35 years and over the decades active in a dozen different community organizations, went on to stress: "The New Years' Messages of both the Mayor of the Borough and the Mayor of the Township made it quite evident that they are fully cognizant of the problems with which Princeton must cope and that they are doing everything in their power to solve them —but they need the help and cooperation of every public official and private citizen in the neighboring region to achieve mutually beneficial results. Both for the physical and ideological preservation of the community in which we live, learn and labor, I urge every one within this area 'to get with it' now."

A summa cum laude graduate of Princeton University with the Class of 1926, which he has served indefatigably in a variety of capacities ranging from Class President to Reunion Chairman, and a student of the 1920's famed "Money Doctor," the late Edwin W. Kemmerer, Cook invested his first seven post-campus years as Princeton manager of Graham, Parsons and Company, Philadelphia investment banking firm. He joined the Bank and Trust in 1933 as a trainee in the bookkeeping department and 20 years later—almost to the day—was elevated to the presidency, a position he was to hold for 10 years as his bank increased its total resources by almost 200 per cent.

Cook's leadership in civic affairs increased proportionately from year to year. A "landlocked sailor" with the U.S. Navy in World War II, he sandwiched together almost two decades as a Trustee of Princeton Hospital and was a principal founder of the Princeton United Community Fund, an outgrowth of the original Community Chest. While helping pioneer such projects as the Public Relations Schools of the New Jersey Bankers Association, he played a major role in the establishment of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civil Council, became a Trustee of The Daily Princetonian and helped strengthen other major undertakings such at the Princeton YMCA.

For emphasizing time and again that "many of our current problems are the result of failure to plan effectively in the past;" for his devotion to the muncipalities to which he has given so freely of himself; he is our nominee as

HOUSING MOVES AHEAD

State Gets Application. "A minimum of 100 apartments—that's what we've tossed up as a start, but it's too early yet for a concrete number."

Theodore Vial, president of Princeton Community Housing Inc., this week used the 100-apartment figure (suggested by the American Institute of Architects) as the non-profit P.C.H. Inc., applied formally to the state for seed money to go ahead on middle-income housing for Princeton.

P.C.H. is thinking actually of 200 units: 100 in the Borough and 100 in the Township; however, Township plans must be delayed until adoption of the new Master Plan, and it's the Borough that occupies P. C. H. at the moment.

Russell Geddes, whose appointment as architect for the new apartments was announced last week, will meet Saturday with Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson to talk about the project.

"The Borough is encouraging the housing people to think about using Borough parking lots," says Mayor Patterson. "We haven't pushed any one lot as a site more than another, except that we don't want them to use the library lot — buildings there would spoil the view of the library itself."

What, and How Much?

"We're thinking of small apartments and efficiency units in the Borough," Mr. Vial explains. "They'd be aimed at families who don't need children's play space — older couples, single people, young marrieds. A lot of tenants might be able to walk to work and this could help traffic."

Mr. Vial says Community Housing is talking of families in the $6,000-$12,000 income range, and apartments at a monthly rental of $30 to $35 per room. This is the rule-of-thumb advised by the state, and Mr. Vial asks the question himself, "Can we bring in something at that cost?"

The state is also interested in economic integration and Borough Councilman Robert Hendry, who is Council's liaison with P.C.H., suggests a low-middle-high range in rentals to achieve this.

And Who? Who would live in these 100 units? The law allows only one restriction, that of income. But there will be a tenant selection committee, Mr. Vial says, and it can give priorities to people now employed in Princeton, now living here or recently forced to move out by economic pressures.

The law also allows multiple use. This means that parking facilities can be incorporated into the apartment buildings, probably the kind of one or two level parking garages talked about in the Borough for some time.

"We've cautioned them about parking," Mayor Patterson warns. "If we're going to let them take a parking lot, they've got to replace those spaces somehow."

Another question, of course, is — will the apartments pay their way? Mr. Hendry says the Borough would expect any project to pay its full share of municipal costs including schools, and not be subsidized. Mr. Vial suggests that stores and offices could be built into ground level or first floor, both to help reduce rents, and provide the Borough with ratables.

But customers driving to these new stores might just create more traffic. This is a real concern to Mayor Patterson.

"There isn't anything official between us and the Borough," emphasizes Mr. Vial, "they've contacted us, but we must take them an economically attractive proposition."

And in the Township. "They feel the pressure of responsibility in housing," comments Mr. Vial. "A large body of public opinion in the Township is in favor of middle-income housing, and Mayor Schafer spoke of it in his New Year's Day address."

The Township's new Master Plan will presumably have provision for some kind of middle-income housing. Mr. Vial says, but ahead lie completion of the Plan and then public hearings. Units in the Township, Mr. Vial says, would unquestionably be larger than in the Borough with space provided for families with children.

State officials have encouraged Princeton Community Housing right along, Mr. Vial reminds Princeton residents.

"Not too many applications have come from the suburbs," Mr. Vial says he has been told by state officials. "The state thinks Princeton could be a fine example to other suburbs of what can be done, so we expect a prompt reply on our application!"

Mr. Vial and Community Housing do not know how much seed money they will get. Presumably, a sum would be set aside upon which P.C.H. could draw.

"Seed money" is the term used for funds that pay for preliminary architectural studies, payments to planning consultants, topographical studies, test borings of soil, economic feasibility studies and so on.

"We're enthusiastic about the appointment of Mr. Geddes as our architect," Mr. Vial says. "His firm has done several things like this in other cities, and we think that his experience can help us keep costs in line."

Mr. Geddes seems to be enthusiastic himself. He has been away on vacation, but he is quoted as saying that if things go well, ground could be broken within four months of state approval.

"We hope," says Mr. Vial, "that this can be a pilot development for creative and constructive land use—aesthetically attractive and economically feasible."

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN

About Walker-Gordon Odor

That pungent and familiar odor from Walker-Gordon Dairy in Plainsboro which has acted as an advance warning to Princetonians for years that rain is due within 24 hours, has become the object of complaints from area residents and the concern of the State Air Pollution Control.

Alex Carson, public information director for the Division of Clean Air and Water in the State Department of Health, said a preliminary investigation was instituted last November following complaints from residents of Princeton Junction and Colonial Park.

A conference was held with Walker-Gordon representatives in December. "The company recognized the severity of the odor problem," Mr. Carson said, "and expressed willingness to cooperate with the state to solve it." Another meeting has been scheduled for March 15, at which time Walker-Gordon will inform the division of what steps it plans to take.

The smell, which is noticeable in this area whenever the wind is out of the east (a factor which usually means rain) is produced from the dehydration and processing of cow manure into a garden fertilizer market by the firm under the name of Boyung.

Henry Jeffers III, vice-president and treasurer of Walker-Gordon, said that the company had experts working on the problem, but "there is to date no simple method for eliminating it."

"Dehydration is the most thorough and hygienic method we have. We would probably have an even worse odor problem than the present one, if we didn't process the manure for the farm."

Mr. Jeffers said that there have always been complaints and that the increase in the area population had complicated the problem. He also pointed out that the law under which the state is acting is just a year or so old and that many firms with air pollution or odor problems are being told to work on solving them. "We are not being singled out as a test case," Mr. Jeffers commented.

Established in 1891, Walker-Gordon has more than 1,600 cows grazing on its 2,300 acres. It also rents a tract of several hundred more from Princeton University. The company's famous rotolactor used for milking the cows is visited by school children every year.

TRI-COUNTY MEN MEET

On Regional Planning. A regional planning council representing 65 business, professional, educational and civic groups in Mercer, Middlesex and Somerset counties elected officers on Saturday at its first annual meeting.

The group, known as the Middlesex - Somerset - Mercer Regional Study Council, is an independent citizen's planning organization which hopes to increase public awareness of the need for regional planning, offer assistance to planning agencies in town, counties and the state, and try to maintain the character of the area as an educational-cultural center.

The Council includes among its members Ingersoll-Rand Co., RCA Laboratories, New Jersey Bell Telephone, Johnson & Johnson, the FMC Corporation, IBM, Mobil Oil's Research Department, Public Service Electric and Gas, Shell Chemical Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Also Princeton University, Rutgers, the Lawrenceville School, Educational Testing Service, the Trenton Times and the League of Women Voters.

According to John P. Moran of Princeton University, president of the Council, the group will have a budget of $40-$50,000 a year to cover the salary of a full-time executive director and to pay for whatever professional advice the Council wants.

There is some overlap between the Regional Study Council and the Regional Development Association, formed last year to push for the Loop Road, Mr. Moran pointed out.

The two groups have met to discuss their common interests and the distinctions between them, Mr. Moran said, and he suggested that some time in the future, the two may possibly merge.

The Regional Development Association is primarily concerned with getting the Loop Road built, although its interests have spread beyond that immediate goal. The tri-county Council will study regional planning in a broader way, Mr. Moran said. It also has a wider geographical base.

Officers besides Mr. Moran are, Arthur N. Curtiss, RCA, first vice-president; Dr. Hans P. Eichenberger, Ingersoll-Rand, second vice-president; Abridge C. Smith III, attorney, secretary.

Alan G. Frank, Langrock-Princeton, and Mrs. David A. Thomas, president of the League of Women Voters, were named to the Executive Committee.

ICE CUBES ON THE FAIRWAY: Members of the Hopewell Valley Golf Club might welcome this sight some steaming day next July, but right now, these chunks of ice are a hazard to the fairways and greens. Originally about 12 inches thick, they were tossed over its banks one rainy day last week when Stony Brook decided it had more than it could handle. (Marie Bellis Photo)

QUESTIONS ASKED

And Answered on Budget. Princeton's $5.9 million school budget was passed quickly and unanimously Tuesday night by the Regional School Board after a three-hour public hearing.

About 250 Borough and Township residents filled the John Witherspoon School auditorium, and almost all of the two dozen who spoke protested the $700,000 increase over last year.

Mrs. George Fremon, board president announced that all six candidates for the school board will be at the regular school board meeting next Tuesday, January 30, at the high school to meet the public and answer questions. All six, it was learned in the course of the public hearing, support the new budget.

In preliminary remarks, Mrs. Fremon characterized the budget as "tight and reasonable" and said the board's goal was to make sound steps forward at a reasonable pace within what the community can afford."

She said that although the board is left with a reserve of only $20,000, it had decided to wait until next year's budget to build the reserve back to where it was — more or less — before the state's school transportation law dug into it so heavily.

How Good Are We? Evaluation — is Princeton getting its $5.9 million worth? — was a persistent question Tuesday night.

"This budget is a 44% increase in two years," stated Joseph Batchelder, 456 Riverside Drive, "but we have no criteria for measuring the performance of our school system. How does it stand in national norms?

"Do more Princeton High School students get into college? Into Ivy League colleges? And there are no concrete answers to why we have to give teacher salary increases."

Salvatore di Donato, Tall Timbers Drive, spoke for the Italian - American Sportsmen's Club asking the money's-worth question, too.

"We're a minority group and our children have more to gain by a good school system than anybody else," he declared, "but this tax rise is unreasonable; it doesn't reflect the value of the system."

Mr. di Donato said Princeton's per pupil costs were above state averages, and he told the board he had tried to obtain objective analyses of the Princeton system but had been told by state officials that they were not available.

Must Pay Teachers. Replying to Mr. Bachelder, Mrs. Fremon said, "We have to raise teachers salaries because if we don't pay teachers enough, they leave."

"Evaluation bothers us all," she continued, "one thing we know; we HAVE failed to do a good job in many areas in the past—and how many high school youngsters get into Ivy League schools doesn't tell a thing."

She also told Mr. di Donato that today's children actually weren't getting their money's worth, in part. "It takes a long time to improve a school system," she said, "and children won't get the benefit of improved programs right away."

Winthrop Pike, Board member, said in reply to one protest on the increase, that $437,900 of the $700,000 is "mandated" — either required by state law or by contractual agreement.

He listed the $250,000 teachers' salary increase, $109,000 for state-required transportation of non-public students, $38,000 for re-aligning Franklin Avenue and $40,000 for special services to handicapped children, as required by state law.

Where to Stop? Spiraling increases year after year drew concerned protests from several in the audience who said they lived on fixed, retirement incomes.

"Is there any board committee looking into the future to see when all this will end?" asked one.

Mrs. Fremon said no, but added that she thought it was a good idea, and she asked for community advice on what might be done.

When one questioner asked about alternatives, Mrs. Fremon replied that the quickest way to bring down cost would be to raise class size from 25 children at the elementary level, to 30 or 40 children; then cut down the breadth of the program in such areas as art, music and libraries.

When to Expand? Another member of the audience suggested that this coming year was a still a "shake-down cruise" for the new Regional system, and not a time to expand.

"We must make improvements," replied Harvey Rothberg, Board member. "We've taught advanced biology in a high school lab without running water to the detriment of a generation of high school students."

"Children's needs don't wait," added Mrs. Bonnie Wagner, also a member of the Board.

Administrative expense and the "cost effectiveness" of the budget were challenged by one questioner who asked for detailed breakdowns on office supplies, per-diem travel expenses, purchase of such items as tape recorders and the replacement of worn books.

A budgeted item of $4,800 to finance four teaching ideas suggested by teachers, the $10,000 salary of a full-time personnel man who would spend his time in teacher recruitment and $15,000 for three new bus routes for kindergarten - through - five were also challenged.

Philip McPherson, superintendent of schools, answered that encouraging creative teachers was important to the system; Charles Jaffin of the Board, said the more you paid teachers the more important it was to recruit good ones so you wouldn't get caught giving irrevocable tenure to mediocrities and Mr. Pike reminded the audience that parents themselves had strongly pressured the board to set up the three bus routes for young children living one and one-half to two miles away.

In response to repeated protests about private school transportation costs, Thomas Cook, counsel to the board, suggested that Princeton residents write Mercer County legislators asking them to repeal the law.

gram sub committee, reported on a study by representatives of the public and private schools in the Princeton community. She stated that her committee had concluded that their role should be to try to provide a framework for a sex education program to be suggested to all the schools. Each school, she said, could then implement it own program in its own way.

Mrs. Lummis, curriculum coordinator for the Princeton Regional Schools, distributed copies of an excerpt, "Philosophy of Program" from the State Department of Education publication, "Guidelines for Developing School Programs in Sex Education."

Dr. Willard Dalrymple of Princeton University, chairman of the teacher training sub committee, led a discussion of objectives and methods in the area of teacher training.

Mrs. Raymond Male, chairman of the parent education unit, reported the interest of PTA's and PTO's in scheduling programs for parents.

Mrs. Jean Cooper, registered nurse of the Montgomery Township School System, asked for cooperation in her efforts to compile reports of sex education programs held or planned by the schools, churches and other organizations.

Dr. Mary Calderone, executive director of SIECUS (Sex Information and Education Council of U.S.), a dynamic speaker who formerly headed the national office of Planned Parenthood, is scheduled to speak in Princeton in April. Mrs. Leslie L. Vivian Jr., chairman of the ad hoc committee on arrangements for her visit, reported on tentative scheduling of events.

The Committee previewed two educational tools at the meeting: a slide show titled "Especially for Boys" and a film, "Human Reproduction." Dr. Frances Arthur told the committee of new materials available from SIECUS.

The Committee will meet again at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, February 21, in St. Andrew's.

THAT PIPELINE AGAIN

"No Comment." Transcontinental Pipeline is still not revealing its plan of activity in Princeton Township

We are not making any statements about our plans," said C. R. MacIver, assistant manager of Transcontinental's land department this week, when asked what the company intended to do with the 46 acres it has purchased in the northeastern part of the Township on Herrontown Road. The land had been earmarked for open space.

Mr. MacIver went on to say that Transcontinental would inform Township Committee and Township Planning Board of its plans when it was ready to do so, and he was not prepared to say how long that would be.

Meantime, a newly formed committee has asked experts at the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association to make a study of the way Transcontinental's operations, such as blasting, digging and laying a pipeline, might affect the natural resources of the area.

Committee members are Mrs. Gordon Knox, chairman of the Herrontown Woods Committee (Herrontown Woods adjoins Transcontinental's recent purchase); Russell Butler, a trustee of the Watersheds Association; a member of the Herrontown Woods Committee and of the Township Open Space Commission; James Sayen, chairman of the Township Open Space Commission and a Mercer County Park Commissioner and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bergh, 29 Hilltop Drive, who have been approached by Transcontinental for the acquisition of more right of way to enlarge its present 30-inch gas line to 42 inches.

Company Can Condemn

Township Attorney Gordon Griffin, asked by Township Committee for a legal opinion on Transcontinental, has written Committee that the pipeline operates under a "certificate of public convenience and necessity" authorized by the Federal Natural Gas Act an can, in effect, do almost anything it desires, including acquiring land by condemnation.

"The Township cannot successfully interpose any objection to the pipeline based on the zoning ordinance," Mr. Griffin wrote. He added that questions of safety could be carried to the state's Public Utilities Commission.

Across the Township, in the Bergh's area, the company has been making surveys. At present, a 42-inch line ends on the "Coventry Farm" property of the late Mrs. Helen Benson just off The Great Road. Transcontinental plans to take its line from there to a point in North Brunswick as yet undetermined, by a route not yet fixed.

According to a letter from Mr. MacIver to Administrator Joseph R. Nini, last November, the company would run the line parallel to, or in close proximity to, the present line. If existing rights-of-way aren't enough, the company would acquire more land. Plans, Mr. MacIver wrote, will be filed with the PUC when they are complete.

Mr. Nini and other Township officials think the present 50 foot right-of-way should be big enough for whatever lines Transcontinental wants to lay.

January
Blows his nose,
Sniffling toward
A drippy close.

The weekend may be a bit drappy, the Weather Man thinks, although the forecast is still somewhat open. Snow or rain could be a part of Saturday's picture, depending, obviously, on what the temperature reading is.

January will move out next week with a reputation for having produced thermometer readings far below normal. Precipitation has also been below average, which may just mean that it's building up for February.

YM-YWCA PLANS MEETING

For Building Fund Drive

A kick-off meeting for the community division of the YM-YWCA Building Fund Drive will be held Wednesday, January 31, at RCA. Approximately 400 volunteer workers will be present to select the homes they will visit and participate in a brief training session.

Ralph Mason, general chairman of the campaign, will give a demonstration and talk. Mrs. James McKeever, chairman of the division, said its purpose is to give individual families of the community, the principal users of the YM YW, the opportunity to show their support. The drive will begin February 1.

Assisting Mrs. McKeever are Mrs. Charles M. Jones, vice-chairman; Mrs. Avery Chenoweth, Mrs. John Golden and Mrs. James Andrews, section leaders; Mrs. William Selden, Mrs. Arthur Macy, Mrs. Edward J. McCabe Jr., John R. Lasley, Mrs. Edward F. Farrell, Mrs. Dean Chace, Mrs. William E. Speers Jr., S. Serge Rizzo, Mrs. James Watson, Archie Lummis, Mrs. Charles Bartow, Mrs. Harold Thomas, Mrs. Theodore Tauchert and Miss Dolores Golds brough, group leaders.

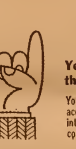
3 BIG REASONS FOR SAVING AT PRINCETON'S FIRST NATIONAL



Your savings earn more for you because they earn interest from the day of deposit.

Your savings work for you every day when you have a regular savings account at the First National Bank . . . even the very first. All interest is now calculated from the day of deposit. Earnings are compounded and credited to your account quarterly.

Saving is easier now because you don't have to worry about interest period starting dates.

Your interest period begins the day you bring the money in. It's a lot fairer and, thanks to the most modern electronic bookkeeping equipment, it's now possible. So start your savings account soon at Princeton's First National. When that quarter rolls around you'll be glad you did.

You can do all your banking at any of First National's three convenient area offices.

Open your savings account, checking account or get that loan at any of First National's three convenient offices. You'll find plenty of free parking and drive-in facilities at both branches. For your extra convenience there's a walk-up window at the main office.

MAIN OFFICE: corner of Nassau and Witherspoon Streets. DRIVE-IN BRANCHES: 370 East Nassau Street and in Princeton Junction at 40 Washington Road.

YOU ARE A WITCH . . . The chilling accusation comes in Arthur Miller's play, "The Crucible," from young Mary Warren, (right), played in the McCarter production by Pamela Hawthorn. She is accusing Elizabeth Proctor, played by Mary Doyle. John Proctor is George Hearn.

News Of The THEATRES

"CRUCIBLE" OPENS

Arthur Miller Play. A powerful play and a powerful production add up to an evening of tremendous impact at McCarter as Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" reminds all Americans once again of what happened in this free country once when mass hysteria overwhelmed reason.

"The Crucible" is a play about the Salem witch trials of the 17th century and the principal characters in it were actual people in the Massachusetts of that day.

Miller wrote the play during the McCarthy era about 15 years ago when other kinds of witches were being hunted down. McCarter produces it today when, as director Ken Costigan points out in a program note, thoughtful dissent may carry the risk of social rejection and legal prosecution.

Under Mr. Costigan's direction, this long play is strong and taut, its scenes of hysteria building almost to the breaking point, its characters developing and changing before our eyes.

Forbidden Dancing. It begins as the teen-age daughter of the Rev. Parris (Will Hicks) lies in a semi-conscious swoon after she and some girl friends have done a little forbidden midnight dancing in the woods. Tituba, a slave from Barbados (Elizabeth Pergerson) has been with them, stirring "soup" in her cauldron.

Lacking a Sigmund Freud to guide them, the good parents of Salem decide witch-craft is responsible not only for Betty Parris' coma, but for a mounting list of other things as well.

Soon a phrase spoken in innocence takes on a sinister double meaning. Words spoken in a fit of temper are turned back on the speaker, perhaps to hang him. In the end, one of the best men in Salem, the farmer John Proctor (George Hearn), goes to the gallows because he will not save himself at the expense of his good name.

The point Miller makes is that the witch-hunters are all normal enough people — a mother who has inexplicably lost seven newborn children, a worried father frantic over his unconscious daughter, adolescents who feel guilt because they have disobeyed the moral code under which they were brought up, righteous ministers of the Lord.

Even as you and I. Or the next-door neighbor who has never really liked you anyway and would love to get even?

Casting Excellent. What gives this particular production its impact, aside from its clear message for today, is outstanding direction and first-rate casting.

Each actor might have been hired specifically for the role he plays. George Hearn's earthly John Proctor has the fiery spirit that once led the farmer astray, but gives him at the end the fortitude to say "no."

As his wife, Elizabeth, Mary Doyle with her spare, bony face and eloquent eyes, is the perfect Puritan wife: loyal and pure in heart, but the keeper of a "cold house."

Susan Babel is Abigail Williams, a teen-ager who went on that forbidden midnight excursion. At the start, she is frightened to be sure, and ripped apart by her passion for John Proctor, but she is an honest enough girl.

As she turns the hysteria to her own uses she begins to change and we see her at the end turn upon Proctor a look of triumphant vengeance that seems the very distillation of evil.

A Striking Performance. One of the most striking performances comes from Jake Dengel as the Rev. John Hale. Known to McCarter audiences as an actor with a rare comic talent, Mr. Dengel turns here to the portrayal of a New England minister, driven by the tensions of his conscience, and tortured at the end by the blood he knows is on his own hands.

In other roles, frail Pamela Hawthorn as a teen-ager who succeeds for a time in breaking the bonds of hysteria; Bryan Hull as old Giles Corey, the man in the history footnotes who was pressed to death by Salem authorities;

Mrs. Pergerson as the matriarchal Tituba; Silvia Fonliju as the honored and venerable Rebecca Nurse and K. Lype O'Dell as the deputy governor with an eye on his own career all succeed in showing us how many different kinds of people were caught on one side or another of the Salem tragedy.

It is a play which must be seen and remembered, and McCarter is to be commended, for giving it to us.

PRINCETON TO BE HUB For Regional Dancers. Princeton has been selected as the gathering place for the Ninth Annual Northeast Regional ballet Festival to be held the week-end of May 25.

The Princeton Ballet Society and McCarter will be hosts to dancers from as far away as Michigan and Canada, and as near by as Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut.

Workshops, classes and lecture demonstrations will be given by outstanding leaders in the dance world. There will be a Dance Art exhibition at the Princeton Art Museum and a reception there for patrons of the Festival.

The week-end will come to a climax on Saturday evening with a Gala Performance featuring members from companies attending the Festival.

Housing is needed for the guests, and residents of the community who can share their homes are asked to call the Princeton Ballet Society studio, 921-7758 between 10 and noon or 2 and 5.

OPEN MEETING SET

By Family Movie Group. The Family Movie Committee will hold a general meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday in the auditorium of John Witherspoon School.

The committee has been researching the distribution and booking policies of the movie industry. "We believe that Palmer Square, Inc. could provide a broader selection of films," the meeting announcement states. "Broad public support is needed if we are to succeed in persuading the board of directors of Palmer Square, Inc. that it would be in the best interest of the community to provide one film each week suitable for family viewing."

Trustees of the Family Movie Committee are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Clancy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. William Brower, Mrs. Basil J. Robinson, Mrs. A. A. Bernhardt, Mrs. R. Stuyvesant Pierrepont and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Bleimaier.

DANCE WITHOUT MUSIC

In New York. A ballet without accompaniment will be danced on the stage of McCarter by the dancers in the City Center Joffrey Ballet when they appear on Sunday, February 4, at 8 p.m.

The soundless ballet is Jerome Robbins' "Moves: A Ballet in Silence," which had its world premiere in 1959.

Mr. Robbins has said of his work that a ballet without accompaniment "permits the audience to respond solely to the action of the dance, to become aware of the potential of gesture and to respond directly to the curiosities of movement."

Also on the Joffrey program will be Gerald Arpino's "Cello Concerto" to music by Vivaldi, and "The Green Table," an anti-war ballet from 1932, choreographed by Kurt Jooss as "a memorial for the Unknown." It is set to a two-piano score by the late Frederic Cohen.

MARCEAU AS "BIP"

Last Time in Princeton. Marcel Marceau, abandoning his campus one-night stands, will make his final Princeton appearance on Sunday, February 5, at 8:30 in McCarter. In the future, the French mime will play major American cities only.

Promising new things to see as well as old favorites, M. Marceau will unquestionably bring out "Bip," his alter-ego in striped pull-over and battered opera hat. "Bip" confronts lions and butterflies, travels trains and mingles with people in dance halls. The character was created by M. Marceau in 1947.

Each Shoe Different

"Fore and Aft," — that's what they call the sassy nautical pattern that sends different signals depending on which shoe you look at.

Nassau Shoe Tree shows off Gamin's idea of spring fun. The vamp of the left shoe has three white patent dots against the dark blue, and the outside heel of the right shoe has the same white dots.

Both shoes have a gleaming white patent heel — one of those nice chunky little ones—and both have square toes. One thing we like about different signals on each shoe: you can tell which one is port and which one is starboard.

IT'S NEW To Us

BRIGHT-EYED SHOES

A Gleam in Each Eye. Wear dark glasses against the shine of patent in Nassau Shoe Tree's spandy new spring collection.

You could begin with the high drama of Di Scarla's black patent with its white patent heel and square toe, and a huge white-dotted black bow right in front, for all the world like some grinning domino.

The same designer has made a navy patent sling and decorated it more demurely with a white-piped bow.

Then, why have Mademoiselle's navy patent with square toe and that squared, chunky heel and a tidy little polka-dot bow. It comes in a dazzling white patent, too, and in navy.

Those white patents! Our favorite has a broad, square toe and a most unusual heel covered entirely with Roman stripe grosgrain that continues broadly around the side of the shoe to meet the white patent. ($22).

A similar outlook on life comes from a white patent with narrow, narrow red-white-blue-yellow grosgrain all around the rim right up to the little bow. It's black, too, with an old-fashioned pinstripe trim.

A dressier white patent has an oval buckle of finely wound gold wires, and a dressy white shoe with the audacity not to be patent at all, is Jacques Levine's white kid sling with a charming bouquet of leather flowers in green, blue, orange and yellow appliqued to the toe.

Lustre "Guernsey" — that's milk-color — has been used for one pale spring shoe. It also comes in palest pink patent.

"Ring toss!" presents pale yellow or pale green lustre calf with a gold chain crossing right over your instep, held comfortably with invisible elasticized anchors.

Mannequin lays three circles of tortoise shell across the vamp of a sling pump in lemon or lime, with squared toe. A shoe with a swaggering look has a heavy, up-the-vamp tongue and a low heel and great big grosgrain bow. Kelly!

If you are under 29, you'll squeal over Shoe Tree's Baby Jane in black patent with round toe, strap and low heel. Ready for dancing class, dear? Golo's "Kelse" in white or black or navy patent, has the look of a little girl's summer sandal from long ago.

White turtles gleam like mother of pearl. (The shine is quite different from patent). Shoe Tree shows them with an oval buckle edged narrowly with gold.

Jacques Levine leaves white behind briefly to present a pair of print pumps, each with matching bag. One is a charmingly traditional paisley, the pattern exactly the same on each pump toe. The other is high, hot and psychedelic with no resemblance at all in the swirling colors on each shoe.

Many of the shoes we've described, by the way, have matching bags.

BLACK AND WHITE

And Red, White and Blue. No. no — don't panic. Those hot and swirling mixtures of orange and pink haven't faded out yet. But the newest, newest combinations for spring in slipcover fabrics and wallpaper are black and white and red-white-and-blue.

We got the message after a visit to Brune Interiors, 245 Nassau. We began by decorating a small room with black and white plaid, a white paper with black and white flowers on it, and a charcoal rug, the kind you can walk on indoors or out.

Then we found a perfectly charming toile paper, like a fine etching with its slim black lines on white. Next to it, a contemporary print shows off black and white stylized flowers and a companion print shows the way flowers might look in a photographic negative.

Turning to the bunting department, we find Brune saluting the sailcloth with red and white stars on a navy ground. It marches next to a print of white dahlias on navy and white stripes, and another that looks like a nice bright red striped awning.

Mr. Brune points out that all these patriotic sailcloth prints are great for the shore, and that a single yard of one

The mother of a small son, she is sent with a nurse (Bibi Andersson) to her beach home, where the nurse tries to gain her confidence by revealing her own thoughts and past, including an accidental pregnancy and abortion. ing fabrics. Here's one with coin dots (fifty cent size) in pink or turquoise or red on white, or white on grey. It has that nice "wet" look and Mr. Brune says it's unbeatable for bathrooms.

Pineapples never really go out of style. Here they are in miniature, all in a prim little row on the white stripes of a black and white print.

While you're lining up fabric and paper for spring and summer redecorating, be sure to consider that indoor-outdoor textile rug we mentioned above.

Brune has it in orange ice, limeade, peppermint, Alice blue or lemonade. It comes in squares or in a solid wall-to-wall. If you buy it in squares, you can cover a bathroom floor and just remove for laundering the particular square that need a good wash. Use warm water and detergent, that's all.

And don't worry about mildew. The fabric won't mildew even if this coming summer is the last summer.

Mr. Brune asks us to remind you that you can buy all these things separately from his shop; you don't have to redo a whole room. If you want to buy the wallpaper and hang it yourself, you are welcome to the experience. If you want to buy a fabric and run up drapes yourself, the pleasure is yours. If you want to buy a rug for your poolside or bathroom . . . welcome!

ANIMALS FOR WINTER

Set on Marble. A snowy owl stares unblinkingly from a protective cover of white branches . . . a polar bear rears at you as he emerges from the white Arctic snows. Winter animals are the latest explorations of Nan Lee the gifted artist whose draw ings on marble captured your attention in the warmer weather of a few months ago.

Look in the Town Shop window on Palmer Square and see how she uses the natural veins and colors of the marble as fur or feathers, or the outline of a seal or a porpoise.

With winter animals as her theme, she can take bits of marble and arrange them to look like icebergs or ice floes, and this arrangement is particularly effective when she is working with a pair of charming little penguins.

Snowy owls are favorites of the artist. On one piece of stone she shows a whole owl only two inches high. On another she groups three owls together, their six eyes luminous against the snowy stone. A giant snowy owl is about 14 inches tall, his feathers almost precisely the veining of the stone.

Moving away from the grey and white marble, she selects pieces of dark green marble as the environment for a sea lion and the head of a seal. Her dolphins cavort against a pink ground that might be northern lights.

The small pieces she has done are delightful — the four-inch arctic fox with his little ears curving over the top of the piece of marble, or the arctic hare with his long ears making the same curve. A four-inch arctic wolf waits quietly in the snow.

Artic poppies join a group of terns on a shaggy-edged iceberg of stone. A herd of reindeer saunters along a group of three marble slabs totaling about 30 inches in length. The background here is a rosy marble.

MUSIC In Princeton

TO PLAY NEW QUARTETS

In Sunday Concert. A string quartet, formed for the purpose of playing new and difficult compositions which audiences might not otherwise have an opportunity to hear, will appear in concert this Sunday.

The Composer's String Quartet will play at 8:30 p.m. in 10 McCosh on the University campus under the auspices of the Friends of Music at Princeton. The public is invited to attend, and there will be no charge.

Members of the Quartet are Maddwey Raimondi and Anahid Ajemian, violins; Bernard Zaslav, viola, and Seymour Barab, cello.

Works to be performed Sunday are quartets by Beo Johnston, Ralph Shapey, Gunther Schuller and "Redundenz 2" by Joseph Maria Horvath. It was Mr. Schuller who suggested, in 1965, that the quartet be formed.

SPECIALISTS TO SPEAK

On Aspects of Music. J. Merrill Knapp, professor of music at Princeton, and Carlos Moseley, managing director of the New York Philharmonic, will speak at Westminster Choir College in the early week of February. The public is invited to both talks.

Professor Knapp, who is also Dean of the College at Princeton, will speak on "The Handel Operas" in the Westminster Choir College Playhouse on Monday, February 12 at 11 a.m.

Although his specialty is early 18th-century music, Professor Knapp has taught courses in Beethoven and Wagner, and on the history of music from 1600-1800. He is an authority on Handel.

Mr. Moseley will speak on "The Symphony Orchestra" on Monday, February 5, at 11 a.m. in the College Playhouse. He has been managing director of the Philharmonic since 1961, and for two years before that, was associate managing director. For four years, he was the Philharmonic's director of press and public relations.

Before joining the Philharmonic's staff, he was director of the school of music at the University of Oklahoma.

IT'S RECITAL TIME

For Young Students. Young members of the elementary department at the New School for Music Study will present an informal demonstration and recital this Friday at 8 p.m. at the school, 353 Nassau.

Performers will be Nancy Bartels, Klaus Belohoubek, Joy Bracy, Janet Bulakowski, Elizabeth Cerio, Kimberly Cunningham, Cheryl DeBias, Cindy Dey, Irma DeMarco, Anne Marie Hannan, Carol Ann Hannan, Stephen Hannan.

Also Kendall Harmon, Margaret Johnson, Mark Johnson, Martin Pensak, Don Seitz, Lorraine Tamasi, Katherine Teapole and Davis Yokana.

Two guest pianists will perform. They are Ellen Chang, from the intermediate department at the school, and Elizabeth Collins from the advanced department.

Miss Collins has won first place in the Haddonfield Symphony auditions, junior division, and will play the Kabalevsky "Rhapsody for piano and orchestra, Opus 78" with the symphony on March 30.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK

On School Affairs Six men running for the three positions available on the Princeton Regional School Board will speak on a Candidates Night next Wednesday, January 31 from 8:05 p.m. to 9 p.m. on WHWH.

The school election is Tuesday, February 6.

The Candidates Night will be sponsored by the League of Women Voters. The subject will be "How can we provide a challenging education for all pupils and still keep it within the financial means of the community?"

Borough voters will choose two school board members from a slate of four candidates. Township voters will choose one member between the two candidates who have filed.

Borough candidates, as they appear on the ballot, are:

Jay K. Lacker, 9 College Road, assistant librarian for science and technology at Princeton University, member of the New Jersey Council for Research and Development.

John H. Marks, 107 Moore Street, member of the department of Oriental Studies, Princeton University, former member of both Planning and Zoning Boards in the Borough.

VOTERS SPONSOR RADIO DEBATE. The six candidates for Princeton Regional School Board will face off on a Candidates Night program on January 31, 8:15 to 9 p.m. on radio. Present will be: (seated from left) Charles Jaffin, Township candidate; Mr. David Thomas, president of the group sponsoring the debate, the Princeton Area League of Women Voters; John Marks, Borough; (standing from left) Dr. William Abrams, Borough; Jay Lucker, Borough; and William Marvel, Township. John Sapoch Jr., Borough candidate, missing from picture, will also participate.

William Z. Abrams, 35 University Place, dentist in public health, New Jersey Department of Health, member of the board Princeton United Fund and Children's Home Society of New Jersey.

John C. Sapoch Jr., 174 Moore Street, administrative director, J. P. Cleaver Company, Princeton, commissioner of the Princeton Midget Football League.

Township candidates, as they will appear on the ballot, are:

Charles L. Jaffin, 522 Rosedale Road, lawyer, currently a member of the school board, and formerly on the Township Board of Education.

William W. Marvel, 141 Dodds Lane, president of Education and World Affairs, former member of Princeton Township Committee.

FIRE DAMAGES WING

Of Frick Chemistry Lab. A storage room was gutted and nearby classrooms and offices damaged by water, smoke and heat from a fire that broke out in the east wing of Princeton University's Frick Chemistry Laboratories Thursday evening. The latest of a large explosion blowing out the entire wing was averted when firemen removed a tank of hydrogen from an adjacent room.

No one was injured by the blaze, which was spotted by two University students at about 7:15. Princeton's three volunteer fire companies responded to the general alarm and had it under control by 8:30. A crowd of some 500-600 undergraduates studying for exams at nearby Firestone Library took a break to watch the action.

The five started in a storage room containing organic chemicals on the second floor of the building located on Washington Road. Prof. Walter J. Kauzmann, head of the chemistry department, said that the chemicals were flammable, but not explosive. The cause of the fire is still undetermined.

Unofficial estimates of the damage have been pegged at $25,000 but a final evaluation cannot be made until the return of chemistry professor Paul R. von Schleyer, who was in charge of the destroyed lab. Peter J. Stang, a research associate in chemistry, in charge during Prof. Schleyer's absence, pointed out that the real loss stems from the destruction of many "chemical samples that were the product of years of experimentation."

Last fall, the building was evacuated when an annoymous caller told University police that a bomb was inside. There was no indication that the fire had any connection with the bomb incident.

THREE CARS COLLIDE

On Stockton Street. Mrs. Julia V. Luna, 35, 124 Edgerstoune Road, was given a ticket for careless driving Friday morning when she ran into the rear of a car on Stockton Street, pushing it into a third car. She was treated for a fractured rib at Princeton Hospital and released.

Mrs. Luna struck a car driven by Barbara L. Solan, 36, of Trenton. Mrs. Solan complained of neck injuries and was released from Princeton Hospital after x-rays. The third driver, George I. Nzewi, 26, a foreign student attending the University of Maryland, was not injured.

Both Mr. Nzewi and Mrs. Solan had stopped to allow a

"Botanical Gem" in Danger.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

One of the most attractive, if little known, areas of West Windsor is in immediate danger of destruction.

The woods behind Maurice Hawk School are a botanical gem. They contain the smaller trees, shrubs, and groundcover found in our wet woods, and also multitudes of wild flowers, including wild Azalea and numerous pink Ladyslipper. It would be a marvelous living laboratory for our children, who must learn to deal with the overwhelming pressures we are inflicting on our natural environment.

Our township's largest developer intends to "improve" the tract shortly. Unlike many other townships, we do not have standards for the donation of land for public purposes. Thus, although other developers have donated appreciable areas and this developer has donated nothing in the past, he is sticking to his legal rights to "improve" virtually the entire property.

Final approval has not yet been given for these plans. Perhaps it is not too late for the township and developer to realize the shortsightedness of their present policies.

Reader Response.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The response to my letter of your issue of last week is most encouraging, to say the least.

One gift of $5,000 has been offered toward the plan to open the Borough Public Library Sunday afternoons. And others are in the works, if the above mentioned response is any indication.

Many children want to use our excellent Borough library on Sunday afternoon, but required by the locked door, they turn to other attractions, some of which are not too inspiring and often costly to all concerned.

Citizens, please continue your good cooperation. KEEP THE LIBRARY DOOR OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOONS.

A Potter Protest.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In reference to your article on President Goheen's imminent departure from "Prospect," we feel we must protest your failure to take any notice of the man who built "Prospect" — and the family which lived there for over 50 years before the University acquired it.

As direct descendants of John Potter who, in 1858, purchased the farm of John I. Craig — that beautiful place known as "Prospect," we feel we must stand up and set the record straight.

John Potter lived at "Prospect" until he moved to "Morven" shortly before his death in 1849. It was his son, Thomas Fuller Potter, who actually built the "Prospect" we know today. As Princeton's early historian, John F. Hageman, wrote: "he received from his father the old homestead of Prospect, and built the magnificent house upon it which he occupied till his death, and ... his widow till her death" (1877).

It is interesting to note that the house to which the Goheens are moving was built by John Potter's son-in-law for his own son, John P. (for Potter) Stockton.

It is painful enough to see the University carving up what little is left of the lovely and once extensive Potter woods which stretched from "Prospect" down to what is now Carnegie Lake. To write of "Prospect" and its new role and not even mention who built it and lived there before the University acquired it is simply too much!

And so we Potter descendants feel we must come out of our dawindling woods and put things back into Potter perspective.

Editor's Note: The signatures on the letter, too long for the usual single line alignment, were those of John Potter Cuyler, Jr., Phyllis Potter Evans Hamgl, Jennifer Potter Hamel, John Potter Cuyler Matthews and John Potter Cuyler Matthews, Jr.

More On Witherspoon Parking.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In TOWN TOPICS of January 13 appears a letter from Robert Webb concerning the proposed parking ordinance for Witherspoon Street and the objections of Mr. Forer of Forer Pharmacy. The only point in favor of the proposed ordinance which Mr. Webb can advance is that it would remove the visibility problems which drivers entering Witherspoon Street from the west experience because of parked cars.

NOTICE

TOWN TOPICS will make every effort, based on space limitations, to publish up to 500 words of any letter on a subject directly affecting the Princeton area. Because of the volume of news which must be covered at the community level, letters on topics of a national or international nature cannot be considered.*

Letters to Mailbox should be typewritten if possible, doublespaced, and must be signed for publication. Those received later than Monday afternoon may be held for use the following week.

It is clear that the ordinance would only move visibility problems to the other side of the street and not solve them. In that area there are two small streets entering Witherspoon from the east, as well as numerous driveways. Cars backing out of driveways with poor visibility are a menace to traffic, are they not?

It would seem that visibility problems could best be solved by moving parking and loading zones farther from the corner. They could not in this case be moved far enough away from driveways without completely abandoning parking in the area where there are many driveways.

If Mr. Webb was a regular customer of Mr. Forer, he would not make light of the exceptional way in which Mr. Forer conducts his business.

And may I remind Mr. Webb that the right of a citizen to protest to his government is the very essence of a democratic society.

car to make a turn into the Princeton Seminary driveway. Mrs. Lana told police she had glanced to her right to see if several pedestrians on the sidewalk were going to step into the road and when she looked ahead again, it was too late to stop. Both her car and that of Mrs. Solan had to be towed away.

Pfc. William Hunter investigated. He described condition of the roadway at the time as wet and icy.

U-Turn Bad Turn. Thursday morning, Mrs. Barbel Buss, 25, of 402-B Devereux was injured when the car in which she was a passenger was involved in an accident in front of her home. Seven sutures were needed to close a laceration in her scalp.

Mrs. Buss had just been picked up by Mrs. Caroline J. Abraham, 32, of 34 Edwards Place. Mrs. Abraham told Pfc. John Hammond of the Township police that she then tried to make a U-turn with her Volkswagen at the intersection of Marshall Street.

Before she was able to complete her turn, however, she was struck a car coming west on Devereux driven by Joseph Procaccini, 23, 319 Witherspoon Street. There were no charges.

Car Goes Off 206. Two people were treated at Princeton Hospital for minor injuries after their car went off Route 206 at 2:15 Thursday morning near the intersection of Cherry Valley Road.

They are Michael Sokol, 50, of Route 206 Skillman, and his passenger, Brigitte T. Milnor, 37, of 130 Fitz-Randolph Road. Police said the car left 41 feet of skid marks before striking a Princeton Township sign. The mishap is still under investigation by Pfc. David Wilbor.

CARNIVAL ON ICE At Baker Rink. "A Princeton Circus" is the theme of the ice carnival which the Prince ton Skating Club will hold this March, Friday and Saturday March 15 and 16, are the dates announced for the Baker Rink event, which will benefit Princeton Day School.

Mrs. J. Harris Mathey and Mrs. Stuart V. Willson are serving as co-chairmen of the ice carnival. Committee heads assisting them in preparations include Mrs. Alfred Parsons, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Gulick, treasurer; Mrs. Petterson Marconi, Jr., and Mrs. Dudley Woodbridge, staging.

Making arrangements for scenery has been the responsibility of Mrs. John L. Lesher and William W. Augustine. Other volunteers working on the ice show are: Mrs. Moore for the removal," he said.

Gates and Mrs. James S. Hill, tickets; Mrs. Joanne Eichenberger, posters; Mrs. Robert J. Sullivan and Mrs. Chapin Carpenter, Jr., patrons; Mrs. George Webster, hospitality, and Mrs. Richard Woodbridge, make up.

Mrs. John E. Kuser is in charge of the program committee and Mrs. Newell B. Woodworth heads the convenors. Handling the choreography and music for the carnival will be club professionals Ron and Sheila Barnett.

A CIRCUS ON ICE: Viewing the program for the Princeton Skating Club's ice carnival, "A Princeton Circus," planned for March 15 and 16 at Baker Rink are Frederick P. King, club president; Mrs. J. Harris Mathey, co-chairman of the event, and Ron Barnett, who with his wife, Sheila, will handle the choreography and music.

Chief McCrohan also warned that after the next snowfall,

FOUR GIVEN SUMMONSES For Snow Removal Failure. At his press conference Tuesday Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan announced that his department has issued summonses to four Borough residents for failure to have snow removed from their sidewalks after the last fall. "This is the first time we have done this in many, many years," he said.

The four cases will be heard Monday in Borough court. Conviction can bring up to a $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

Chief McCrohan reported that after the last snowfall, his men issued at least 200 verbal warnings. These were followed up next day by 60 written notices. On the following day, the four summonses were issued.

The Borough engineering department removed the snow from the sidewalks of three of the owners who could not be located. "They will be charged there will be no verbal warnings. If residents fail to have their walks cleaned within 12 hours of daylight after the ending of the snow, they will be given a written notice right off.

"In other words," he said, "we're tired of talking to people. It's always the same people — the ones who go way for the winter and fail to make arrangements to have their walks cleaned."

VOTE ON WATER SET

By West Windsor Residents. Residents of West Windsor Township will go to the polls from 4 to 8 p.m. Tuesday to vote on the sale of the municipally-owned water system at a special election. Citing the lack of an adequate water supply nearby, the Township committee is urging a "yes" vote.

The committee has been unsuccessful in locating water from an underground source and feels that a private utility company could best handle the job. Elizabethtown Water Co. has submitted a bid for the system, which has been accepted by the committee, covering all of the capital expenditures the Township has made in the present system.

If the voters approve, Elizabethtown will install a 16-inch water main from Princeton, along Alexander Road, to connect with the municipal mains in Princeton Junction. Elizabethtown will also undertake, at its expense, expansion of the system to serve the Township as it grows.

ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES

In Mercer Hospital. Mrs. Maureen Conkley, 25, of 26 East Village Road East, Dutch Neck, died last Wednesday in Mercer Hospital of injuries suffered the night of January 9 when her car collided with another driven by a 14-year-old boy on Pennington Road near Central Avenue, Ewing Township.

Mrs. Conkley was in critical condition in the hospital's intensive care unit for a week suffering from injuries of the liver, and kidney. Employed by National Computer Analysts, she attended night classes at Trenton State College.

The boy, whose name has been withheld because he is a juvenile, was released in the custody of his parents. He reportedly was driving the family car without permission.

BOROUGH WOMAN VICTIM

Of $35 Flimflam. A Wilton Street woman was the victim of a $35 flimflam last week.

She told Borough police she was home alone Wednesday morning when a stocky man knocked at her door and said he was the representative of an Elizabeth-based gas company, who was here to repair her gas heater. She allowed him to enter the cellar.

Later he told her that he needed $32 to purchase a section of gas pipe that needed to be replaced. Police said that the woman told them she gave the man $35 cash to purchase the pipe but he never returned.

This is sort of a flimflam that goes on all the time," said Chief Peter J. McCrohan. Police withheld her name.

$320 IN CLOTHING GONE

Stolen from Parked Car. A man's camel hair topcoat, a suit, cuff links and other articles of clothing plus a blue suitcase were stolen Saturday from a parked car on Hornor Lane.

Mrs. Morris Maple III, 2 Hornor Lane, told Borough police the items were stolen from her car parked in her driveway. The theft took place in the evening, she said.

In a second Borough theft, Thomas Wild of Cranbury came to police headquarters Saturday morning to report that a tape recorder he had mounted under the dashboard of his car had just been stolen while his car was parked in a Tulane Street lot. Also missing, he added, were five tapes on the front seat. He said that the machine and tapes were worth $140.

A visit to the bank in the Princeton Shopping Center last week proved to be an expensive one for Mrs. Danuta Stys of 200 Jefferson Road.

She told Township police that while she was in the bank, someone removed a winter coat with a mink collar valued at $60 and a $5 box of women's stockings from the rear seat of her car. Mrs. Stys said that she had left her car unlocked. Sgt. John Petrone investigated.

TRENTON WOMAN NABBED

Shoplifting at Bam's. Mary L. Littman, 25, of Trenton, a waitress at the Terrace Club, has been charged with shoplifting by Detective Frederick Porter of the Township Police.

Miss Littman was accused of taking two dresses valued at $22 and $14 Thursday afternoon from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center by Constance Ware, head of the store's security department. She was later released on $50 bail.

Ptl. Frank Boccanfuso and Ptl. Anthony Gaylord were in charge of the initial investigation.

WINDSHIELDS DAMAGED

At Cregar Motors. The windshields of four used cars parked in front of the Cregar Motors showroom on Route 206 were damaged last week by vandals.

Township police report that the damage appeared to have been caused by some kind of small pellet. The combined value of the windshields was $233.79.

DRIVER FINED $120

On Four Separate Charges. William E. Meyers, 38, of Lincoln Highway, Route 27, was fined $25 and $5 court costs Monday in Borough Court on four separate motor vehicle violations.

Louis R. Gerber, former Township Magistrate sitting in for Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr., levied the fines for careless driving, driving with no license, operating an unregistered vehicle and using the wrong plates on the wrong car.

Driving while on a revoked list cost Lawrence E. Clevenger, 18, 28 Station Drive, Princeton Junction, the mandatory $200 fine. He was also assessed $5 court costs. Carl M. Adams, 18, 74 Clay Street, and Hugh W. Samson, 18, 247 Brookstone Drive, paid $15 each for careless driving.

Paying fines of 12 each were John S. Keck, 27, 196 Elm Road, failure to keep right at an intersection, and Eric M. Luttrell, 26, 401-C Devereux Street, driving with no rear taillights. Mr. Keck pleaded not guilty.

John W. King, 28, of the Lawrenceville School, had his

County Rateables Up

Taxes, too. Mercer County picked up $27 million in new rateables last year, but the county's budget is expected to go up $2.5 million, just to keep pace.

Only two Mercer County communities lost rateables: Trenton almost $2 million—and Pennington $635.

Lawrence Township had the biggest gain—$4.6 million. Hamilton Township turns out to be the richest community in the county, with property having a true value of $391 million.

As reported last week, Borough ratcables increased from $44.9 million to $46.3 million and Township rateables from $81.9 to $84.7 million. West Windsor and Hopewell both had a $1 million increase.

license suspended for one month by the Division of Motor Vehicles under a reciprocity agreement after he was convicted of speeding in Connecticut.

For speeding, the state halted James R. Hillier, 30, 333 Nassau Street, for 30 days and David C. Richardson, 23, of Skillman, for one month. Mr. Richardson lost his license under the point system.

CHILDREN OCCUPIED At Junior Museum.

Work shops in elementary electronics are in busy operation on Saturday mornings this January. Under the sponsorship of the Princeton Jaycees, the "R.E.S.I.S.T.O.R.S." and the Junior Museum Computing Group, young people are working on electrical projects in the Princeton University Engineering Building.

Many of these projects will be on view when the Princeton Junior Museum opens its "Communications and Computers Exhibit" on February 17 in the Nassau Street School. The exhibit — running for four weekends — will feature a variety of displays and programs that have been organized by youngsters averaging about 10 years of age.

The electronics workshops have been operating under the supervision of Steven Hirsch, Dave Rostwick, Charles Erlich, Greg Clark, Mark Bayern, Ted Brenneman, Joel Goldberger and Rich Rubin. Projects have included the making of "mystery boxes" of flashing lights, while advanced and intermediate groups have been working on transistor radio receivers.

BIRTHS

Twenty-three Born. Fifteen boys and eight girls were born last week at Princeton Hospital.

Girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. James Hawley, 14 Prospect Street, Cranbury, January 14; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Odenser, 7 Sheffield Road, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Arndt, 11 Henderson Avenue, both on January 15; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ryden Burgh, 115 Dickinson Avenue, Trenton, January 16; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jantz Jr., 25 Dutch Neck Road, Hightstown, January 17; Mr. and Mrs. Felix Rossi, 24 Rolling Lane, Hamilton Square, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Bancroft, 1461 Lawrence Road, Trenton, both on January 19, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Werner, 9 Tyndall Road, Kendall Park, January 20.

Boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Milulewicz, Viebel Road, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. J. Beau Lacken, Glenmore Farm, Hopewell, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tregoe, 34 Heather Lane, all on January 16; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams, E-8 Windsor Castle Apartments, Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. David Levitsky, 87-B Taylor Avenue, East Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Whitehurst, Titusville, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Efrow, 83 Kendall Road, Kendall Park; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eastman, 108 Gilman Place, Hightstown, all on January 17; Mr. and Mrs. Craig Havemeyer, 102 Brookwood Gardens, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Simkins, Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction, both on January 18; Mr. and Mrs. Fe-Ning Chen, 136 Clover Lane, the Rev. and Mrs. Louis Hirh, 207 Dana Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Beskos, 34 New Street, Mercerville, all on January 19; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mihalik, 501 Brookwood Gardens, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duffield, 12 Sun Valley Road, Trenton, both on January 20.

A son, Andrew was born on January 20 to Dr. and Mrs. Michael M. Stewart, of Boston, in Boston Lying In Hospital. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James P. Stewart of East Millstone, formerly of Princeton. The maternal grandparents are Mrs. Lewis Fritts of Somerville and the late Dr. Fritts.

NO IMMEDIATE PLANS

For Indoor Pool. "Yes, we do have plans for Community Park but I can tell you quite frankly that an indoor pool was not one of them."

So said the newly-named chairman of the Joint Recreation Board, John Conroy, to Norman Van Arsdalen last week at the board's regular monthly meeting. Later, Recreation Director R. Donald Barr added that there would be no indoor swimming pool constructed at the park in 1968 . . . "or 1969 or 1970. It's definitely in the long-range planning stage," he said.

Mr. Van Arsdalen, director of physical education for kindergarten through eighth grade for the Princeton Regional School Board had appeared before the boards last week. "I am here," he said, "as a private citizen, hoping to get some idea of the projected plans of the recreation board which would help me as an individual and as director of physical education to make recommendations within the framework of the school system. I speak of long-range plans; I'm not talking about anything immediate."

Adding that his main interest was to avoid duplication, Mr. Van Arsdalen pointed out that schools used the swimming pools at Community Park, and the Recreation Commission used the school gyms in some of its programs. "Certainly, as we each work within the community, it is important to avoid any duplication of activities."

One item that Mr. Van Arsdalen was wondering about in the recreation department's plans for 5-10-15 years from now was an indoor swimming pool. "I was just wondering if such a facility was in your long range plans if at all," he said. "Perhaps what we have is all we need."

At the moment, only the sixth graders use the swimming pools as part of a school program of instruction. A master plan for the future growth of community life does show an indoor swimming pool located between Community Park School and the present wading pool.

In his financial report, Mr. Barr revealed that operating expenses for the recreation commission in 1967 totaled $11,935. Net income from the pools and tennis courts was $8,942.

Mr. Conroy was named chairman, succeeding Harry J. Volwieder who resigned. Mr. Volwieder is a newly-elected member of the Township Committee. Robert Sinkler was named vice-chairman. Dean Chase was appointed from the Township to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Volwieder's departure.

OPENING THURSDAY

For Adult School. The winter term of the Princeton Adult School will get under way Thursday with a full schedule of classes and workshops. A few places are still open in several language and high school equivalency classes — including courses in science, mathematics, english and social studies.

Unlimited registration is still the rule for the Adult School's two big lecture series in the PHS auditorium. Tickets for the two series of lectures, "Centers of Power in American Politics" and "Oceanography, Frontiers of the Sea," are still available at $8. Tickets for individual lectures cost $1.50.

The Adult School Board suggests that students plan to arrive a few minutes early if they are driving to the classes.

Correction

In last week's "Profile of a Year" article, the figure given to Town Topics for parking and motor vehicle violations revenue in the Borough ($6,740) did not include court costs also assessed. The correct total is $88,033.

PATTERNS OF FLASHING LIGHTS: Making "mystery boxes" is one of the activities that keep Princeton youngsters busy at the Junior Museum's Electronic Workshops. These and other projects will be on display at the Museum's "Communications and Computers Exhibit" in the Nassau Street School, beginning February 3.

Parking facilities are limited and traffic regulations in the vicinity are strickly enforced so drivers may have to walk some distance to the school. Car pools are also suggested to cut down traffic

THEY HAVE THE HEART TO GIVE A HEART: Beth Mrs. Cecilia Rogers (right) and Mrs. Janet Reyner would allow the heart of a member of their family to be used in a heart transplant operation. For their reasons, see below.

Question Of The Week

Question: if you had to make the decision, would you allow the use of the heart of a member of your family in a transplant operation?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Gil AlRay, 789 Kingston Road, associate professor of political science, Hunter College: Yes, I would. There is no intrinsic value in a corpse or of part of a corpse but there is intrinsic value assuring life to someone who needs it.

Miss Melinda Woodward, Patton Avenue, student at Woodrow Wilson School: Yes . . . I just don't see any reason why not.

Mrs. J. W. Fields, Tenacre Foundation, nurse: I should say not! Man's not made just of blood, bone and muscle. He's God's spiritual creation. I'm a Christian Scientist and we believe in keeping these things in the hands of God.

George Martin, Montclair, salesman: Yes, I would do it myself. I think it's great. After all, why throw it needlessly away? My wife and I were talking about this and she feels the same way. I'd do the same with any part of my body, especially my eyes. It's terrible when you can't see.

Mrs. F. A. Lewis, 43 Witherspoon Street, student at Bryn Mawr: Sure! My heavens, for one thing it will help further the aid of science. I think it would be stupid not to. What's it going to do in a corpse but sit there and rot?

Curtiss McKee, Princeton Seminary, student: Yes, I would — because his or her heart would allow another person to live who would not be able to otherwise.

Mrs. Cecilia Rogers, Cranbury Manor, clerk at Fabric Center, 25 Witherspoon Street: Sure I would. I would go with heart transplant, eyes — anything. Any part that's needed. I believe in this.

Mrs. Janet Reyner, Hightstown, clerk at Fabric Center. Yes. After I'm gone I don't care what happens to me. If someone else can use part of my body — great! I'm sure the rest of my family feels the same way.

Joseph D'Atri, Princeton Junction, teacher at Rutgers University: Yes. There doesn't seem to be any other source for hearts.

Edgar A. Dormer, 387 Franklin Avenue, owner of tile business: It takes quite serious thought. There are so many religious aspects that have to be considered. Yes, I think for the good of humanity, it ought to be allowed. I would go ahead and do it. There are so many things in the world the Lord has given us to make use of even if it's part of your own member. I think replacement in a human body is as feasible as it is for a mechanical thing — whether it be a selonoid for a motor or a heart. Why not take advantage of all these advances in medical science. After all, we're supposed to be intelligent people.

Mrs. Kitty Kelly, Edison, employee of Davidson's Market: Yes, I think I would, because without people willing to do something like this, doctors would not be able to find out if heart transplants can be done. The way to find out is by trying it. Many lives may be saved by it.

Carl Kavenagh, Alexander Road, retired: Sure — just as I would my eyes or their eyes. Anything to help humanity.

Mrs. Lawrence Pervin, 222 Hamilton Avenue, housewife: A member of my family dead and gone . . . a chance to give life to another person . . . certainly! If I could extend the life of someone else and if they've perfected this technique, why not?

Mrs. Jeanne Slone, 24 Mercer Street, housewife: Yes — why not? I'm all in favor of using eye banks, kidney banks and so on.

Miss Darlene Pinter, Rocky Hill, employee at Davidson's Market: No, because the person they give the heart to will only die anyway. Every person isn't the same; everyone is built different. I know that two are still alive after the operation but I still don't think it is worth all the effort.

Mrs. Ruth Weiss, Plainsboro, housewife: Yes, If I could be sure there was some medical validity to it and it was not a hoax. But it will have to prove itself more than it has. Both my parents are doctors, and I know a lot of medicines and techniques get publicity that aren't that vital. My father works in the same hospital — Maimonides — where they have done transplants and according to many physicians the technique has not been perfected yet. If I found that it had, I think I would do it. I have no compunction about the dead.

Frank Maguire: Familiar Face in a New Job

KNOW YOUR POLICEMAN

Eighth of a Series

Frank Maguire. The first of his year, Francis Frank to his countless friends — Maguire became West Windsor's first full-time police chief. His job: to develop and shape that rapidly - growing community's first full time police force.

For the previous 16 years, Frank had served on the Borough's police force, and he served it exceptionally well. As its lieutenant for the past six years, he was one of the most respected and perhaps best trained officers to serve the Borough.

In December when this interview took place he said, "I'm looking forward to West Windsor. Certainly, I'll give my fullest ability to the citizens there. The past years have been rewarding in the sense that I've gained a wealth of experience about law enforcement, but there's room for a lot more. You never stop learning."

He also spoke about the role of policemen today. About the problems and the difficulties they face after a decade of sweeping change, both as a result of court decisions affecting law enforcement and the feeling of the public toward policemen.

"It's harder to be a cop today," he said. "The public demands more of police. You have to take more abuse, more punishment — both verbal and physical. There is a need for the public to look upon police as a profession. It's even more important for a new police officer today to look upon himself as a member of a profession."

Biggest Change? "The problems of youth," replied Maguire when asked to mention the biggest change he has noticed since joining the force.

"Not so much the problems the police are having with youths," he added, "but the problems youths are having among themselves."

As a policeman, Maguire has had a continuing interest in young people. He served as the Borough's unofficial juvenile officer in 1959 and '60. He recalled that as a kid he had always wanted to be a fireman or a policeman. "I really did like helping people."

His concern for youth led him to devote hour upon hour of overtime — all without pay — to try to help in a spreading problem that has troubled Princeton and other communities in recent years.

He reported that for the past three years he had been active in the field of narcotics. You soon realize, he said, that it's hard to get down to the children's level to try to convince them of all the fates in store for them when they fool with narcotics.

SAME STORY: Frank Maguire, shown here as Borough police lieutenant illustrating many different types of drugs, had barely begun his new assignment as chief in West Windsor when he participated in a raid on teen-age drug users.

"I'm definitely not popular among the youth and this is mainly because of my concern for their safety. My approach may have been bad, but I still have that concern.

"I'm out on the average of two to three nights a week trying to locate one of the pushers or acting as a deterrent. This is where I lost my friendship with the children. They thought I was trying to 'catch' them; I wasn't trying to catch them, I was trying to protect them.

"It was very discouraging, very discouraging. But I can still say it's been worth it. I know I saved at least one life.

"I've met and had dealings with many people in town who have an appreciation of the police but I am sorry that there are not more who appreciate their police department. I regret leaving with the feeling of some that I am not their friend. I am. I may appear to have a hard shell but I'm pr obytet atmnn I'm pretty human inside."

Strike Changes Career. Had there not been a strike at Prudential early in 1952, forcing the suspension of all applicant trainees, Maguire might have wound up as a million dollar insurance salesman. When the strike hit, Maguire, who had been accepted by Prudential, was out on a limb: his wife was about to have their third child.

He was working part-time for a survey company when Jim Kopliner, who earlier had worked under Maguire right after the war at the Princeton Film Center, told him about some openings on the Borough police department — which he had joined — and urged Frank to take the test.

Maguire did. In the first of what was to be a series of outstanding successes in police schools and classes, Frank scored a 98, the highest mark ever. Only a misspelled word prevented him from attaining a perfect score.

Three days before his son, Mike, was born, Maguire joined the force on February 1, 1952. He was promoted to sergeant in 1959. In 1961, he became lieutenant when Chief Raymond Mondone retired and Peter J. McCrohan took over.

In addition to Mike, a sophomore at the Hun School where he is a standout basketball player, the Maguires have two daughters. Kathleen, a dental assistant, was married last month on her 21st birthday. Colleen, 18, is studying to become a nun at the Mount St. Mary Novitiate in North Plainfield.

Born in Worcester. Maguire, 43, was born in Worcester, Mass., and attended high school in Brooklyn. He joined the Naval Air Corps in April, 1943 and by that time pilot training had been lengthened from eight months to 18. As a result, Frank attended five Universities among them Columbia and the University of North Carolina before he got his wings.

His lone military mishap occured while he was attending Alfred University in Dansville, N. Y. and he and his instructor hit a power line and pancaked into a flock of sheep.

In 1945 in Florida, he met a Wave from Princeton, Ann Cauley. He married her the same year and after the war returned to Princeton where her father was a proctor for the University.

For relaxation, Frank likes puzzles, the ones with 1,000 pieces or more with a picture on both sides. He also claims to be an amateur carpenter — he has redone his wife's kitchen, and made a playroom for the cellar — and likes to hike. He and his son have climbed the highest points in several eastern states.

He has a couple of tales about reaching the top of Mt. Washington in New Hampshire, which he has climbed a half-dozen times but that's another story.

He also was able to realize the other half of his boyhood ambition. For the past seven years he has been a member of the No. 1 Fire Company on Chestnut Street.

It is not surprising that West Windsor turned to Frank Maguire.

TENNIS RATES UP 50%

For Adults at Community Park. Adults (16 and over) will pay 50% more this spring to play on the nine fast-dry tennis courts at Community Park. Pool rates will remain the same.

Family season tickets have been raised from $10 to $15; individual season's permits from $7.50 to $10. Daily adult admission prices have been increased from 50 to 75c and the weekend and holiday daily rate from $1 to $1.50. The corresponding increases for guests are $1.50 and $2.25, up from $1 and $1.50.

Failure of tennis revenue to meet first year's maintenance and operating costs of the courts at Community Park — there are 15 in all, including six all-weather courts — was the reason given by R. Donald Barr, Recreation Director, for the increase. "The tennis courts ran in the red by about $2,000," he said.

The pools and courts are open only to residents of the Borough and Township. Non-residents who wish to use the facilities will — as last year — be placed on a waiting list. Mr. Barr reported that his Recreation Department would inform those on the tennis list if there were any opening on or after April 15. Non-residents hoping to use the pool facilities will be notified May 15 or after.

Family pool permits for non-residents cost $60; husband and wife, $37.50; and individual, $22.50. Non-resident tennis fees for family, adult (16 and over) and junior last year were $15, $11.25 and $7.50 respectively. These will be increased 50 percent.

SCOUTS TO UNITE

For 50th Anniversary. Fifty years of scouting will be celebrated Friday, February 9, when Boy Scout Troop No. 43 holds its 50th Anniversary Reunion. Former scouts will have an opportunity to meet their young successors in the Troop.

The celebration will take place at 7:30 in the First Presbyterian Church. Featured at the ceremony will be the presentation of achievement awards to present scouts and the recognition of Princeton residents who have contributed to scouting over the years. Friends and family are invited to the affair.

REPUBLICANS VOTE

For New Officers. The Lawrence Township Republican Club has unanimously elected Dr. Cecil C. Barton club president for the coming year. He succeeds Rider College Chemistry Prof. William McCarroll.

Prof. McCarroll, who had served as president for three years, was recently elected municipal chairman of the Lawrence Township Republican Committee. Dr. Barton, a dentist practicing in Lawrence Township, is a past president of the area's Jaycees.

Also chosen for office were: George Johnson, Jr., executive vice-president; Thomas Mott, Lawrence Road vice-president; Mile W. Truesdell, Jr., Lawrenceville vice-president; and Harry Ratcliffe, Jr., Slackwood

MAN OF THE YEAR: George R. Cook, chairman of the board at Princeton Bank & Trust, has been named "Man of the Year" for 1967 by the Chamber of Commerce. See front cover.

vice president. Also Duane Tompkins, treasurer; Mrs. James Price, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Peter Lashutka, recording secretary; and Mrs. Harold Johnson, corresponding secretary.

MENU'S READY

For Lawrenceville Dinner. Roast beef will once again be the main course of the Annual Dinner of the Lawrenceville Inn Company. The family style meal will be served from 5 to 8 tomorrow in the Phillips Avenue Fire House.

Tickets will be available at the door at $2.50 per person. Admission for children between 10 & 5 will be $1.25. Admission for children under five will be free. John Maple, in supervised arrangements for the affair has made plans to take out service.

STUART TO HOLD EXAMS

For Entering Students. Girls wishing to enter Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart this fall are required to take a special examination Saturday, February 3 — beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the school. Students competing for high school scholarships will also be taking the exam.

Stuart is an all-girl school with a current enrollment of over 270 students. Conducted by the Religious Order of the Society of the Sacred Heart, the school has 22 lay teachers and 12 nuns on its faculty. Heading the faculty are Mother Mary Cecilia Wheeler and headmistress Sister Mary Bush.

In addition to the examination, a transcript of school records are required prior to admission. To arrange for appointments or to secure further information, applicants should telephone the school at 921-2330.

Merrill Zinder

BUSINESS In Princeton

8c A COPY

Duplicating Service Formed. An enterprising Princeton University senior and an established Nassau Street merchant have formed a partnership to provide a duplicating service for 8 cents a copy — less than is available anywhere else in the area.

The two are Merrill Zinder, owner of Zinder's stationery and toy store at 102 Nassau Street, and Herbert Payne of 34 Little Hall. As a result of their collaboration, an American Photo Copying machine has been installed in Zinder's. It is capable of duplicating papers, books, letters, note books and the like. Most service will be while you wait. Larger amounts of work can be left at the store.

The idea was Mr. Payne's who researched the feasibility of the project. His thinking: "I got tired of having to pay 10c or 15c for copying service when I knew students at other universities were getting it for less, so I decided to do something about it."

He added that the American Photo Copying machine was chosen because of its ability to produce a high-quality copy yet was inexpensive enough to permit charging only 8c a copy. "The success of this venture is dependent on a high volume business," he said.

Mr. Zinder reported that he has been very pleased with the results so far. "The copies are of good quality and the machine is easy to operate," he said.

DIRECTORS NAMED

By Opinion Research. Several Princeton area residents have been appointed to the boards of directors of various Opinion Research Corporation subsidiaries.

W. Donald Rugg, 92 Overbrook Drive headed the list of appointees — being named chairman of the board of ORC West, a subsidiary based in San Francisco. Other ORC personnel chosen to serve on the board are: Timothy Ellard, Line Road, Belle Mead; Joseph Goeke, Ridge Road, Kingston; Hugh C. Hoffman, Orchard Lane, Lawrenceville; and Albert Westefeld, 39 Rollingmeade.

Other staff members receiving directorships included Reuben Cohen, 99 Meadowbrook Drive, named to the board of ORC Mexico, and Eugene Heaton, Sr., 113 West Broad Street, Hopewell, named to the board of E. L. Reilly, a New York subsidiary.

Also: Walter H. Meyer of Trenton, president of Market Dynamics, named to board of ORC International, Ltd.; and Leonard Newton, 90 Dempsey Avenue, and Harry O'Neill, 2 Cleveland Avenue, Highland Park, to the board of ORC Service Corporation.

Three of the appointees, Mr. Ellard, Mr. Heaton and Mr. O'Neill, had never before been named to boards of ORC subsidiaries. Mr. Ellard, a specialist in consumer and marketing research, has been with ORC since 1964.

Mr. Heaton, a former member of the personnel research staff of the Atlantic Refining Company, came to ORC in 1960 to research marketing, political and corporate reputations. Research director of the "ORC Public Opinion Index," Mr. O'Neill directs studies in the fields of politics and social issues.

ADR NAMES JAPAN FIRM

As Far East Representative. Japan Office Supplies, Ltd. has been named as the Far East marketing representative of Applied Data Research Co. for its proprietary software products.

With headquarters in Toyko and sales offices throughout the Far East, the Japanese firm presently markets several lines of data processing accessories including magnetic tapes and continuous forms. It will primarily market ADR's Autoflow, a computer documentation system that automatically produces two dimensional flowcharts.

In announcing the new relationship, Richard Jones, president, said it represented ADR's first market expansion for its software products outside of this country and Canada. ADR is studying the European market for the development of similar direct representation.

ERDMAN NEW ASSOCIATE

In Alexander Ewing Firm. Michael P. Erdman has been made an associate in Alexander Ewing and Associates, an architectural and engineering firm, located in Philadelphia. He is the head of the firm's Princeton office at 32 Nassau Street.

A registered architect, Mr. Erdman is a member of the Capitol Chapter of the New Jersey Society of Architects. He resides at 301 Elm Road.

CBS APPOINTS CAPLAN

To Head Learning Center. Frank Caplan, 191 Brookstone Drive, has been named president of the new CBS Learning Center, an educational research and development organization, which will explore new educational technologies, systems and services. He was formerly vice-president, general manager of Creative Playthings, Inc., Edinburg Road, Hightstown, a CBS subsidiary.

The learning center, which will be headquartered in Princeton, will work with and advise the units of the CBS/Holt group, which was formed last summer as the core of the firm's educational services. The center will explore ways in which radio, television, records, films, tapes, toys and other objects of learning can be used to improve traditional educational techniques and programs and create new ones.

A graduate of City College of New York and Teachers College, Columbia University, Mr. Kaplan was co-founder with Bernard M. Barenholtz of Creative Playthings. Replacing him at the Hightstown firm will be John J. Cain, a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, formerly vice-president and assistant to the President of the McCall Corporation. A resident of Old Greenwich, Conn., he will be moving to Princeton.

MOBIL PROMOTES TWO

In Research Division. Two scientists on Mobil Oil's central research division laboratory staff, Dr. John P. Guarino and Dr. Sundaresa Srinivasan, have been promoted.

Dr. Srinivasan, who lives at 302 Nimianne Boulevard, has been advanced to senior research engineer. He received degrees from Annamalia University in India and Purdue and a Ph.d in chemical engineering from the University of Maryland. He joined Mobil in 1965.

Dr. Guarino, 71 Stonicker Drive, a graduate of Boston College with a B.S. in chemistry, was promoted to senior research chemist. He received his Ph.d from the University of Notre Dame and taught chemistry at the University of Miami before joining Mobil in 1965.

Donald M. Wilson, Province Line Road, formerly general manager of Time-Life International, has been made associate publisher of Life magazine, acting as deputy to Life publisher Jerome S. Hardy.

Mr. Wilson began his career with Life in 1949, after graduation from Yale in 1948. He held chief correspondent positions in Detroit and Singapore, and was named head of the magazine's Washington bureau in 1956. He was deputy director of the U.S. Information Agency for four and a half years under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. He became general manager of TLI in 1965.

PEOPLE
In The News

Five senior members of the Princeton University faculty have been selected as McCosh Faculty Fellows, for their distinguished scholarship in the humanities and social sciences. Established in 1962 the fellowships carry a full term of leave and a drawing account for related research experience.

The five include: William M. Beaney, William N. Cromwell Professor of Law, who will work on a study of the role and functioning of trial judges in Colorado; and Martin Duberman, Princeton historian of the Civil War era, who will do research for a history of Black Mountain, an experimental college in North Carolina from 1933 to 1956.

Also, Stuart N. Hampshire, Class of 1933 Professor of Philosophy, planning to work in London on completion of a book on the philosophy of mind; Gaines Post, professor of history, who will travel to England, France, Italy and Germany to work on research on theories of public law and the state in relation to feudalism in the 12th and 13th centuries; and Robert C. Tucker, professor of politics, who hopes to conclude work on a study of Stalin and Russian communism.

Three Princeton residents were among a graduating class of 129 at Rider College honored at ceremonies last Sunday. They are: Frances Allison, daughter of Leon Allison, 27 Birch Avenue, a bachelor of science in commerce; John Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger K. Johnson, 32 Taylor Road, a bachelor of art in history; and Thomas Maurer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herrymon Maurer, 31 Wheatsheaf Lane, a bachelor of science in commerce.

William McCleery, 317 Edgerstoun Road, playwright and editor of "University: a Princeton Quarterly," will participate in a creative writing seminar at Union College. Mr. McCleery will review manuscripts written by Union County high School students for their youthful authors.

A former journalist, Mr. McCleery left newspaper work to devote his efforts to writing for the theatre. He wrote a number of plays, several of them running on Broadway, in which such performers as Helen Hayes, Rosalind Russell, Faye Emerson, Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone and Walker Abel have appeared.

He is the author of more than a dozen hour long television plays produced by major networks. At Princeton University, he is a member of the Faculty Advisory Committee for McCarter Theatre.

Dr. Kemble Widmer of King George Road in Pennington, a former Princetonian, has been named to the Columbia University Seminar on Water Resources. Dr. Widmer is State Geologist and Chief of the Bureau of Geology and Topography in the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The honor will enable him to meet experts in his field and to discuss common problems and experiences. A graduate of Lehigh and Stanford Universities, Dr. Widmer also holds degrees from Princeton University. He is the author of a regional survey of New Jersey entitled "The Geology and Geography of New Jersey."

Dr. Widmer joined the New Jersey State government in 1953 after teaching geology at Champlain College in New York. He is a former assistant professor of geology at Rutgers University.

Machinist Mate First Class Charles W. Jones, 438 Princeton Road, Plainsboro, has been commended by the U.S. Navy for outstanding performance of duty on a cruise of duty in the Western Pacific. From May through November of 1967 he served as senior engineman aboard the submarine USS Remora during deployment from its base in Pearl Harbor. Mate Jones has been in the Navy since graduating from Princeton High School in 1960.

The second period honor roll has been announced by Chapin School. Included on the list were: Chris Brown and Alex Robinson, third grade; Michael Goldman and Austin Rednor, fourth grade; Saedra Lamb, fifth grade; Christie Anderson, Peter Neuwirth and Jeff Pasta, sixth grade.

John T. Henderson Jr., of Harmony Hollow, Harbourton, has been named vice-president of Danger - Fitzgerald-Sample, Inc., the nation's ninth largest advertising agency.

Previously Mr. Henderson had been with Lynn Baker agency as executive vice-president and with N. W. Ayer & Son as a copy group supervisor. He joined Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample as an account executive three years ago. Mr. Henderson is married to the former Margaret Harrison. They have two children, Jane, 6, and one month-old John III.

WE DO!

TWO 18-YEAR OLD PRINCETON YOUTHS were in this car on Faculty Road, heading for Alexander Street, just before 10 p.m. on Tuesday, January 10, when they were struck by the Pennsylvania Railroad shuttle train.

Jeff McGregor, a senior at Princeton High School, was killed. Anthony Bloch, a 1967 PHS graduate, was seriously injured. The 1965 convertible was dragged 600 feet following the crash. The impact broke the air hose that provides braking pressure for the "dinky." According to witnessess, the shuttle had sounded its whistle and the crossing lights had flashed its approach.

Why did this tragedy occur? The National Safety Council has appealed for driver education in high schools as one of the best ways to teach an improved code of responsibility. "We just don't have actual driver education at the high school," a Princeton resident says. "The kids don't get behind the wheel."

The Safety Council recommends a separate course carrying full credit towards graduation, scheduled just before the student is eligible for a license. The course should include practice driving.

The Winter Safe Driving League notes that the negative factors that will push death totals up in the years immediately ahead are: more young drivers, higher speeds, motorcycles, failure to use seat belts and drinking.

With their better-than-average reflexes and quick learning ability, young people are capable of becoming safe and responsible motorists. Studies by the Safety Council show that teen drivers who have received formal driver education have far fewer accidents than those who have not.

We remind all teens and their families: your car carries the world's most important people. Take care. We care!

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW . . . ABOUT STUDDED TIRES

A studded tire is a regular highway or snow tire that has had several dozen metal shafts imbedded in its tread. The purpose of the studs is to give the tire greater traction on ice and hard-packed snow — where driving is most dangerous.

The studs when new are about ½" long and have heads about the size and shape of a thumbtack. They are metal, with a head and jacket of stainless steel or aluminum and a core of tungsten carbide, an extremely hard metal that can scratch a diamond.

Although they can't provide as much ice-gripping traction as tire chains, studs have several important advantages over chains:

1. They are less expensive, per tire, than top-quality reinforced chains.

2. They last many times longer.

3. They can be driven at much higher speeds with safety.

4. They don't have to be put on and taken off; they can be used for the entire winter season.

5. They are vibration-free and virtually noiseless. (You will notice, however, when the studded tires are brand new, a rather loud buzzing sound made by the studs as they strike the pavement. This diminishes with wear.)

6. They can be installed on front as well as rear wheels, while chains should be put on rear wheels only. Studs therefore, provide much more assistance in steering than chains, which help mainly with starting, stopping and tailwag.

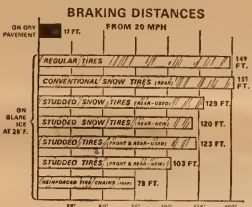
7. Chains cannot be driven long on bare pavement (only about 100 miles), so they must be repeatedly put on and taken off. Studded tires, once installed, give constant protection — even against the unexpected patches of ice and frost you're likely to encounter between periods of snowy driving.

In repeated tests by the National Safety Council, cars equipped with four studded tires had a 31% better braking ability on glare ice than cars with regular tires.

When brakes were slammed on at 20 mph, cars without studs would skid an average of 149 feet before coming to a halt on the ice. The car with four studded tires could be stopped in only 103 feet. Cars with reinforced chains on the rear wheels will stop on glare ice at 75 feet.

Although studded tires are only second-best to chains in stopping ability, the fact that you can keep them on your car throughout the snow season means they're more lively to be there when you need them.

— from Family Safety
Winter 1967



Test results from the 1967 report of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards

The latest test findings of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards disclose that regular tires on glare ice may take close to nine times as far to stop as on a dry pavement. The Safe Winter Driving League points out that regardless of the type of traction device employed — even with tire chains — far slower than normal speeds are a must on icy pavements.

"THEY WRINKLE MY CLOTHES"

The seat belt dilemma: to the dismay of the medical profession and safety authorities, only 4% to 26% of our motorists buckle up for safety, in spite of overwhelming evidence that shows seat belts save lives and cut down on injuries.

More than 12,000 of the nearly 50,000 people killed on U.S. highways in 1965 could have been saved if they had been wearing seat belts.

High in the roster of reasons for not wearing seat belts is human laziness — a sad epitaph for the thousands of drivers who might be alive today. Nearly half of the occasional users interviewed in a California study consider fastening and unfastening seat belts a nuisance.

Non-users give such reasons as "They wrinkle my clothes;" "They're uncomfortable;" "Seat belts give me a feeling of being tied down;" and "They take all the fun out of driving."

Race drivers and test pilots wouldn't think of driving a block without buckling their seat belts, yet young drivers feel that life is pretty drab without taking a chance now and then.

Once the habit of regularly using seat belts is acquired, it generally sticks, the California study found.

Stafford W. Keegin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Woolridge, 33 Springdale Road, has been initiated into the national honorary leadership society, Omicron Delta Kappa. Enrolled at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va., Keegin has one of 20 students honored in a ceremony at which former vice president Richard Nixon was the speaker.

All of the inductees were in the top 35 per cent of their class at Washington and Lee and had made significant contributions in leadership. Mr. Keegin is a member of Phi Delta Phi law fraternity, the Law Review and the Student Bar Association and is chairman of Contact, an annual intellectual symposium on the campus.

Michael F. Lamorte, 90 Castle Howard, has been elected president of Laser Diode Laboratories, Inc., Metuchen. The new company is working exclusively to develop laser and light emitting devices.

Previously employed at RCA as manager of the Optical Products Department, Mr. Lamorte graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute with a bachelor of science and MEE degrees. He worked for Westinghouse before joining RCA in 1959. Laser Diode Laboratories is a subsidiary of United Corporation, a major closed end investment company.

Robert E. Mueller, Homestead Lane, Roosevelt, has written a book on the relationship between computer technology and art — "The Science of Art" under publication by John Day in New York. A flutist in the Princeton Community Orchestra, Mr. Mueller also finds time to teach painting for the Princeton Art Association and to produce puppet shows in the Princeton area.

Radioman Third Class David T. Sands, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Sands, 9 Rumford Way, Princeton Junction, had an opportunity to see a naval rescue operation in action during his last tour of duty in the Western Pacific. The ship aboard which he was serving, aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea, received a distress signal from a Liberian freighter that had run aground off the coast of Red China. After racing to the stranded freighter, the Coral Sea dispatched helicopters to lift 37 Hong Kong Chinese crewmen to safety.

William D. Wakefield, son of Mr and Mrs. Kenneth E. Wakefield, 546 Ewing Street, has been elected president of Theta Chi Fraternity's chapter at Bradley University. Mr. Wakefield, a graduate of the Princeton High School, is a sophomore studying architecture at the Illinois school.

Coast Equipment Operator Pat Ushkow, husband of the former Miss Elaine B. Hinkson of Mt. Lucas Road, has arrived in Vietnam where he will serve with the U.S. Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 58. Stationed near Da Nang, he will assist in the construction of temporary housing, port facilities and housing for U.S. and Allied troops.

Naval Reserve Ensign Karl D. Pettit III, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Pettit, Jr., 104 Bayard Lane, has completed his course of instruction at the U.S. Naval Officer Candidate School in Newport, R. I. He was one of 487 college and university graduates from across the United States who participated in the 16 week period of intensive training.

Martin P. Lombardo, 329 Nassau Street has been named chairman of the Princeton March of Dimes Ashbook Drive. Proceeds from the Ashbook will supplement money raised at the March of Dimes New Jersey State Ball — scheduled for Friday, February 16, in Trenton's Hotel Hildebrecht.

WINTER SPORTS RESUME

Action This Weekend. Hockey and swimming against Dartmouth at home and a trip to Philadelphia for basketball with Penn highlight resumption of Princeton's winter sports season. The skaters will play host to the Indian sextet Friday at 8 in Baker Rink, while the swimming meet against the Green is set for 4 o'clock Saturday in Dillon Pool.

The Tiger basketball team will play at 7 Saturday night in the Palestra. In other action, the fencers meet Penn in the Gym Saturday at 2 and the squash team entertains Amherst at 2:30.

Dartmouth's hockey team is hoping to move upward from the Ivy cellar, where it has finished for the past two seasons, and figures to do so at the expense of newcomer Penn, which it blanked, 10-0, in their first meeting. Beyond that, however, the Indians appear in for trouble; their strength is largely at the sophomore level and they lack a capable defense.

Going into their game with Northeastern Wednesday night,

QUESTION MARK: On the unanswered question of whether sophomore John Hummer will be able to play the second half of the season bangs much of the future of Princeton's basketball team. Without him, Tigers were outrebounded by Dartmouth and Harvard, a shortcoming they can ill afford in vital February games against Cornell, Columbia and Yale. Cast on Hummer's foot, protecting injured achilles tendon, comes off in a few days, with workouts thereafter determining his availability.

they were 3-8 on the season. The Tigers trimmed them twice last winter, 8-2 and 5-4.

Coach Bill Quackenbush's forces, balancing on the .500 mark at 5-5-1, have a chance to move beyond that with four games in the next eight days. Two of them, however, form another rugged road trip: they'll be in Boston Wednesday for a contest with B. U. and in Troy, N. Y., the following night to face Rensselaer before playing Yale in Baker Rink a week from Saturday.

Captain John Ritchie's 22 points pace the Princeton scoring, while junior Jerry Kersey is the leading goal-getter with 10. The Tiger defense is subpar through the absence of Ben Kanninen with a broken leg and Randy Evans with a shoulder separation.

Second Place at Stake. Inasmuch as Yale's superiority is conceeded to be beyond challenge in the Eastern Swimming League, Saturday's meet between Dartmouth and Princeton figures to decide the second-place winner. It should be an intriguing contest, with Princeton depth possibly the decisive factor.

The Indians' basic strength lies in the sprints and the middle distance freestyle, giving them the edge also in the seven-point freestyle relay. If Princeton is to win, it apparently must have sufficient points on the board before that event brings the day's program to a close.

Coach Bob Clotworthy's squad is strongest in the butterfly, backstroke and diving events. The day's outstanding performer will probably be Ross Wales, Princeton's Eastern Seaboard champion in the 'Fly and possibly good enough to qualify for the Olympics.

Quintet Beset with Problems. While nothing is likely to deter Princeton's basketball team from recording its second victory of the season over a mediocre Penn five Saturday, February looms as a troubled month for the Tigers. They broke open their first contest with the stalling Quakers early in the second half, recording a 73-to-47 triumph, and should repeat this weekend despite a fort night layoff.

One of the major questionmarks surrounding the Tigers' future will be answered in the next few days, when the cast is removed from sophomore John Hummer's heel. If his achilles tendon can stand the strain of pounding up and down the hardwood court, the Tigers will regain vital strength in all departments—scoring, defense and, most vital of all, rebounding.

If Hummer does find he can re-unite action and the estimates have been no better than 50-50 for such a development—Princeton may still not be out of the woods. An unconfirmed report indicates that sophomore Geoff Petrie may be in academic trouble: if he is, faculty ruling on his eligibility would not come until early February.

Meantime, the race has been narrowed to three logical contestants following the one sided defeat that Columbia handed Cornell in Saturday's televised game in New York. Now 2-2 with ten games left, the Ithacans have too many weaknesses to finish as high as 11-3 the lowest probable mark good enough for a share of first place.

Columbia, now in the favorite's role off its continuing improvement, will be the choice to top Princeton in New York a week from Saturday. However, if the Tigers can defeat Cornell at Ithaca the night before, they will at least have won one game that the Lions missed out on.

Yale, meanwhile, is playing topflight basketball and already holds a win over Cornell on the Red's court. The Elis, beaten only three times this year—as is the case with Columbia and Princeton—are largely a senior team which will be very difficult to defeat at New Haven.

PUNTING RULE CHANGED

Coaches' Pleas Effective. The nation's college football coaches, who often complain that they have been behind the door when the NCAA Rules Committee seeks opinion on forthcoming legislation, are looking forward to the 1968 season in a contented frame of mind.

Their satisfaction stems primarily from two developments at the Rules Committee's annual meeting, held last week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. First off, unusually prompt admission of error was made by the committee when it rescinded after a single season its 1967 decision to keep interior linemen from going downfield on punts until the ball had been kicked.

Secondly, the current rules on substitution, facilitating the use of two platoons, remained in the book untouched. Concern that the pendulum might again swing against such a policy had been expressed last month when a minority segment of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association went on record as favoring a change. To the astonishment of the Ivy League, Harvard was among the dissidents.

It was n scant 12 months ago when the Football Rules Committee enacted legislation which permitted only ends and backs to go downfield on kicks as soon as the ball was snapped. The announcement was accompanied by the statement that the new rule "would open up the game, permitting longer returns and thereby prove welcome to participants and spectators alike."

Protests Quick to Follow. Colleges which hold spring practice were objecting as early as March that the rule made for increased injuries because the few players going down field under punts were easy prey to blindside blocks. As late as mid-August the Ivy League was mulling over the possibility of refusing to accept the rule for its own games, and as early as October 14, Princeton had bitter taste of the pudding.

At Ithaca that day, quarterback Dick Schoene went downfield on punt coverage, fell victim to a scythe-like block he never saw, and left the field on a stretcher. He had won the varsity starting job in his senior year but could not return to play again.

Biggest problem of the Rules Committee in seeking to justify its decision were the 1967 statistics. Figures showed that punt returns averaged a mere 1.3 yards more than they had the previous fall. The vote to kill the rule was 14 to 1; on the coaches' bench, a poll showed 95% of their number opposed.

Other Changes Also Popular. Coaches here and elsewhere also enjoyed reading of other changes which will be in effect next season:

- Banned is the "sucker shift," a procedure long in use at some colleges in which offensive players were instructed to straighten up briefly after they had taken the traditional set position with hands on or near the ground. The deception tended to draw defensive linemen offside.
- Simplification of the game for the defense, for officials and for spectators was achieved by outlawing the "tackle eligible" play. Heretofore, a team was permitted to position two ends on the same side of the line, making the tackle on the vacated side eligible as a pass receiver. The new rule states that five offensive linemen must wear numbers from 50 through 79, and that no player so numbered may catch a pass.

Other changes.

- More playing time was created by a rule requiring that the clock be stopped whenever the referee signals a first down. Thus the chain-gang will not consume valuable seconds finding a new location each time the stakes are moved.
- A time-out will henceforth be 90 seconds, not two minutes. (Radio and TV stations have so far failed to announce whether the charge for commercial time will be reduced by a similar 25%.)

- A player signalling for a fair catch of a kicked ball may no longer block a member of the kicking team.
- A player intercepting a pass inside his five-yard line, who is carried into the end zone by his or the ball's momentum, will not be charged with a safety if he is tackled behind his goal line. Instead, the ball will be placed at the point of the interception.

- Another step to reduce injuries was taken with further legislation to govern legal clipping. In the past, blocking from behind had been permitted within an area eight yards wide and six yards long with the ball ready for play at the center of such a rectangle.

All players except a back in motion before the snap had been permitted to clip in such an area. Now, only those players who are positioned within the rectangle prior to the snap may do so.

PHS VS. EWING

On Home Court Friday. As he has many times in the past this season, PHS coach Larry Ivan said it again last week: "I'm not giving up on this team. We're still improving. We're cutting down on the number of bad passes, our rebounding is getting better—I still think this team can win. But it's taken them longer to come around than I first thought."

However, when PHS entertains Ewing here Friday night at 8, the Blue and White will be 14 games into a 22-game schedule and even Ivan realizes has has to draw the line somewhere. That somewhere is Ewing.

"Ewing will be a big test for us," said the personable Ivan, who is finding his first year as coach of roundball at PHS rougher than he expected. "I think if we can beat Ewing, it will restore everyone's confidence." The Little Tigers, who have failed to win in '68 and who have won only one so far, need that big win to turn themselves around.

It won't be easy. Ewing is ranked fourth among Mercer County teams and sports a 9-4 log. In December in the opening game for both schools, the Blue Devils walloped PHS, 93-62. Ewing is the first report of five county schools—Trenton, Steinert, Hamilton and Cathedral the others — that PHS plays on a home and home basis. Hence Ivan's concern that if the Little Tigers are going to start winning, they've got to begin with Ewing.

Tuesday afternoon, PHS will host Lawrence High School. Playing only their second year of varsity ball, the Cards should be figured as easy-pickings but they aren't. They have won seven of their first 11 and are led by high scorer Laszlo Adam.

In addition, 6-6 Lou Hingstman will probably give the Cards control of the boards as the Little Tigers' tallest starter is 6-2 Billy Brooks.

Hamilton Wins. The lone bright spot in Princeton High's 83-62 loss to Hamilton Friday was the shooting of its 5-10 forward, Ed McEwen. Hitting consistently from outside, Ed made 11 from the floor and added eight free throws for 30 points—high for any Little Tiger this season and Ed's career high.

Johnny Madden, the second half of Princeton's one-two punch, had 19. No other Little Tiger scored more than two with the exception of Billy Brooks, who contributed seven.

Generally, the visiting Little Tigers, although they twice pulled within four points in the second quarter, fell before the superior shooting of the Hornets. Although it took six more shots at the goal, 62 to 56, PHS connected on only 38% while Hamilton was hitting at a 55% rate.

The sharp-eyed Hornets also converted 21 of 28 foul shots and outrebounded PHS, 42 to 32.

In the evening's first game, the PHS jayvees, behind by as many as 26, came on to tie Hamilton's jayvees 62-all and then go on to win, 64-62. It was the second straight for coach Earl Ownes' forces, who are now 3-7.

Bob Kennedy, a fullback on the football team, who just joined the team recently, had 21 points. Reggie Swain, a short but fine ball handler, had 20.

WISSAHICKON NEXT

For PHS Skaters, "If we play well we should be able to beat Wissahickon."

This prediction by PHS hockey coach Pete Cook follows on the heels of his team's 4-0 loss to Princeton Day School, which defeated Wissahickon, 7-1, in its first game of the season. The Little Tigers' match with the Wissahickon Hockey Club—apparently not as strong as in previous years—will be held Wednesday at 6:30 at Wissahickon.

Friday's setback at the hands of Princeton Day School (2-1) was not unexpected. "Under the circumstances," said Cook, 'we played pretty well.

"The principal difference in the game was in front of the nets. We didn't score when we had our chances and they did. As for our skating, I felt the play in center ice was more even that I thought it would be.

"No doubt," he continued," in many respects PDS is much stronger but our guys skated with them throughout the

Thomsen Named Lacrosse Coach of the Year

Ferris Thomsen

Ferris Thomsen, who has no peer among Ivy League coaches in any sport in producing maximum results from available manpower, has been named lacrosse coach of the year for 1967. The nomination was announced Saturday in Philadelphia at the annual meeting of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association.

Since 1956, when the Ivy League completed its first formal season, 11 of Thomsen's Princeton teams have either won the championship outright or held a share of first place. Last spring, after a somewhat unanticipated drop to fourth a year earlier, he directed the Tigers to a perfect 6-0 mark against Ivy opposition for another title.

Success in coaching the sport runs in the Thomsen family. At Saturday's meeting, Ferris Thomsen Jr. was honored for leading Denison of Ohio to an 11-0 season.

Volkswagen introduces the automatic stick shift.

After lo these many years our humble little bug has gone automatic.
Gone is the clutch.
Gone is the wifely whine, "It's cute, but I can't drive it."
Gone is an era of Volkswagendom. Sniff.
And in its place?
A Volkswagen you can drive all over town without shifting.
Only on the highway do you shift.
Once. (This is an economy move.) Which, after all, is still the name of the game.)
But you do have a choice in the matter-you can drive it the easy way (described above). Or you can start out in low and take it through the gears like a regular stick shift.
The automatic stick shift is an option: you pay a little more.
But you do a little less.

game. I wasn't disappointed in our performance except, of course, I would have liked to see them score."

Cook also cited the play of goalie Bob McCloskey, who played the entire game for the Little Tigers.

Jayvee Game, Too. In the first such game, the PDS jayvee sextet defeated the PHS jayvees, 4-1.

"It's so much the score as it was the fact that we had a few kids in the seventh and eighth grades who had played in the Pee-Wee League," said Cook. "We hadn't done this before and it was kind of fun. It was very interesting," he added.

Gartner Joins Team. Cook reported that Chris Gartner, the soccer-kicking extra point specialist for the football team last fall, has joined the team and has "helped quite a bit." Gartner, a junior, is wing on a first line with Steve Housington and John Mueller.

Gartner's presence has allowed Cook to move John Ricci back to defense. "This has given us better balance," said Cook.

PDS SKATERS TOP PHS

Raise Record to 2-1. The execution was somewhat below par, but the Princeton Day School hockey team had the drive when needed as it outskated Princeton High School Friday afternoon on its way to a 4-0 triumph, aided by events until February 3, the squad now has a 2-1 record.

"Our first line's timing was off," commented coach Harry Rulon-Miller, pointing out the number of errant passes and offside calls against the Blue and White. "The second line also had some adjusting to do with the addition of Bill Chalverus," Rulon-Miller said.

Playing in his first game after being sidelined with a broken foot early in soccer in the fall, Chalverus responded by getting the Panthers' third goal. Basil Stetson played a fine game at wing, scoring two for PDS, and Rulon Miller commended John Taylor for his hustle.

The Panthers slapped two shots past PHS goalie Bob McCleskey in the first period, and two more in the second. Sophomore Jim Rogers accounted for the other score.

Rulon Miller let freshman goaltender Tom O'Conner play the entire contest for PDS to give him some game experience. He handled nine saves, but was not under much pressure from the PHS offense. Still and all, the Little Tigers put up a strong showing and held PDS scoreless for half the game.

After exams, PDS will have four away games, which may well determine the success or fairness of the season. The first contest will be against the Hill School on Saturday, February 3. The next weekend the team will make its annual New England trip, playing South Kent on Friday, February 9, and Kent the next day. A game against Lawrenceville at Lavino Rink follows on February 14.

WRESTLERS GO FRIDAY

Against Hopewell Valley. Upended last week by Peddie, the Princeton High School wrestling team's square off Friday evening against Hopewell Valley Central High School (Pennington) in the John Witherspoon School gym. Varsity matches will start at 8; junior varsity matches at 6:30.

On Wednesday, coach Tom Murray's grapplers will travel to oppose a strong Lawrenceville School team at 3:30. This Wednesday, the 24th, the Little Tigers were scheduled to tangle with their neighborhood rival, Hun, which also lost to Peddie last week, 30-10.

Hopewell Valley, 3-3 last week after a defeat at the hands of Franklin, was slated to meet Burlington Township on Wednesday. Three of the top matchups in Friday's battle will occur in the 130 pound class, where Sam Procaccini will meet Hopewell Valley's Bill Kastrinos; in the 148 pound class, in which Bob Bayer will meet the visitors Jim Burd; and in the 168 pound division, where Nick Arcare will vie with Bill Hudnick. The three Hopewell Valley wrestlers have all won four of six bouts.

Against Peddie last week, PHS trailed 19-18 going into the last bout. But here, the Little Tigers had to pay the price of being unable this season to find an unlimited weight candidate. Chris Mosow, a transfer student from PDS, wrestling far out of his class, was pinned and Peddie won, 24-18.

For PHS, Hank Wilkinson registered a pin in the 115 pound class to remain undefeated. Ross Bayer pinned his man in the 148 pound class. Marty Heitner and John Barclay scored decisions, while Danny Gales' battle ht opponent to a draw in the 106 pound event.

Procaccini, Princeton's 130-pounder, was far ahead on points when he got pinned. "It was a real surprise," said Murray. "He started to get careless and made a mistake."

"If things go right," said Murray—eyeing victories over Hun and Hopewell Valley—"we should hit .500 again this week." After the Lawrenceville match, only dual meets with South Brunswick and Colenia remain before the start of the district matches on February 23.

PDS QUINTET AT .500

After Six Games. Recording one victory and two losses in games this past week, the Princeton Country Day School basketball team has some time off for exams and a chance to figure out how to contend with the "A" division teams on its schedule. The squad has a 3-3 record to date.

Independent schools in the state are separated into "A" and "B" divisions, with the size of the school the determining factor. PDS, with only 90 boys in its upper school, is one of the smallest in the "B" section.

After an opening loss to the Lawrenceville JV, the Panthers won handily from other B schools, their latest victim being Morristown Prep on Friday, 71-48. However, against the much larger and more experienced A teams, they are 0-2. The latest losses came last Wednesday against Delbarton, 60-30, and Saturday afternoon to Hun, 96-58.

To the Panthers' credit, they play the same brand of aggressive and hard-driving basketball against the A teams as they do against schools in their own class, but so far they have not been able to match the strength of the bigger squads through four full periods.

Against both Hun and Delbarton, the Panthers managed to stay close in the first quarter, only to see the other team break the game open in the second. Delbarton led by only a point, 9-8, after the first eight minutes, but then threw up a full-court zone press, a tactic the Panthers work well against smaller teams, and forced many turnovers. The visitors picked up 24 points in the second period, and jumped in front by 33-14.

Added to this was a tremendous performance in shooting by Delbarton, which made 24 of 43 field goals all told, with the first team sinking 64% of its shots.

On Saturday the Blue and White trailed Hun by only six points, 14-8 after one period, but went out at the half behind by 36-19. Hun, showing no effects of its overtime loss to George School Wednesday, controlled both boards and improved its shooting after the first period.

PDS came within three points of the Red and Black part way through the second quarter, but then faltered when Craig Page incurred his third personal and had to sit out. Frank Andrews was high for the Panthers with 20 points, Bill Rigot had 17, and Page, 14.

Against Morristown, the Panthers were able to work matters their way, using a pressing defense and a fine fast break to run away from the visitors. The outcome was decided by the first half with PDS ahead by 38-12. Andrews once again led the scorers with 24, while Page had 19.

Back in action again on Friday, February 2, the team goes up against the George School away. It plays Newark Academy, another A school, away on Wednesday, February 7.

BANQUET SET MONDAY

At Y for Baseball Awards. The Princeton YMCA's 18th Annual Baseball Awards Banquet will be held Monday evening at 6:30 at the YMCA on Avalon Place. Tom Petroff, coach of the Rider College baseball team, will be the speaker.

The program will include presentation of trophies to the YMCA Midget League world series champions—the Nassau Oil Tigers managed by Ray Richards. Also receiving awards will be the National League pennant winners, the Princeton Motor Lodge Pirates managed by Roger Campolucci and Ed Edenfield, and the Junior League Champions, Matthews Construction Company. Matthews' manager is Tom Brophy. Movies of the 1967 World Series will also be shown.

Invitations have been sent to all league members and their fathers. Any player who has not received an invitation may obtain one at the YMCA office. Those wishing to attend must get their names into the Y office no later than 5 p.m. Friday.

ONE THAT GOT BY: Princeton High School goalie Bob McCloskey has dropped to his knees in an attempted save, but too late. The puck off the stick of Princeton Day School wing Basil Stetson found its mark for the Panthers' fourth goal of the game against the Little Tigers, this one coming in the second period.

PHS LOSES ANOTHER

In Basketball, 89 to 77. Unable to hold a three-point halftime lead, Princeton High School's basketball team made it an even dozen losses Tuesday when it bowed to Madison Township, 89 to 77.

The Little Tigers had a slim 46-43 advantage at the intermission, but the home team rallied and eventually coasted in. Bright spot of the defeat was John Glenden's 30-point, game-high performance for the losers. Ron McEwen added 22.

AWARDS BANQUET SET

For Football Hall of Fame. The Delaware Valley Chapter of the National Football Hall of Fame will hold its annual Scholar-Athlete awards banquet Monday at 6:30 at Rider College. The First National Bank and Princeton Bank and Trust Co. will each sponsor a table at the event.

Attending from Princeton area schools will be Tom Butterfoss, captain of the Princeton High School football team, Ken Kelly, quarterback on the Hun football squad, John Clagthorn, halfback on the Princeton Day School team; and Bob Weber, Princeton University tailback. The boys' parents and respective coaches will also be on hand.

SQUASH TITLE WON

By Philadelphia Woman. Joyce Davenport of Philadelphia defeated her New Jersey Women's Squash Racquets championship successfully last week, defeating Mrs. Betty Constable of Princeton in the finals, 15-4, 15-5, 16-14. Miss Davenport is ranked no. 2 nationally.

The champion advanced to the finals at the Presby Brook Club by defeating Dede Shipway of Princeton, 15-10, 13-9, 15-8. Mrs. Constable's semifinal match was a 15-9, 15-7, 15-5 victory over Nina Moyer of Princeton. The consolation title went to Jane Sheets of Philadelphia when she defeated Dorothy Katz of Princeton, 15-10, 15-12, 15-12.

LACROSSE CLUB MOVES

Now Based in Princeton. The New Jersey Lacrosse Club has moved to Princeton where Hawley Waterman and Dave Savidge, Hun School lacrosse coaches, will coach the club for the 1968 season.

There will be an organizational meeting of the club at the Hun School on Sunday morning at 10 in the school's academic center. Former players and prospective new ones are urged to attend. Anyone not playing for a college or high school team or under contract with another club may try out.

The New Jersey Lacrosse Club will play an 11-game schedule, starting with the Washington Lacrosse Club on March 31. The season — including a game with the West Point Plebes April 13 at West Point — will end with the All-Star Game at Johns Hopkins on June 8.

Three practice games with Pennsylvania, Rutgers and Swarthmore have been scheduled in March. The club's five home games will be played at Hun or Community Park.

HUN DEFEATS PDS

But Loses Big One. That nonleague 96-58 victory over Princeton Day School on Saturday was nice, but the big one that Hun School wanted to win — its beads-on clash with George School with first place in the Penn-Jersey League at stake — that one Hun lost — in overtime — 79-74.

Meantime, Hun can fatten up its 6-1 record this week. It meets winless Solebury Saturday on the Spartans' New Hope, Pa. campus and Moorestown here in the Seminary gym at 3:30 on Wednesday. Hun already owns lopsided wins over both. Wednesday, Hun was scheduled to play at Perkiomen whose lone win this season has been at the expense of Solebury — a slight distinction at best.

Hoping that Hun's setback to George would dampen its spirit, PDS coach Chancey Jones instead found his team constested with an aroused Hun five. Hun dominated the boards and shot its way to a 36-19 halftime lead. It broke the game wide open with a 35 point spree in the third quarter, after which Coach Dave Leete sent in the reserves.

In all, 10 Hun players entered the scoring column, seven of them in double figures. Reserve Mike Rossi lead all with 21 (one more than PDS's Frank Andrews) and Leete reported that Rossi's play has been impressive of late that "he may break into the starting lineup.

Only 5-10 and a sophomore, Leete said "Rossi hustles a lot and gives me good strength off the bench."

Others in double figures for Hun were co-captain Don Silverson (19), Nat Williams (12) and Mike Maguire (11). It was the first varsity outing between the two schools.

Hun Blows Lead. Against George School, Hun built up a 10-point lead in the last quarter mainly on some tremendous shooting by its sophomore forward, Mike Maguire. With Maguire hitting on 21 of his 27 points in the second half, Hun looked a winner.

But with five minutes to go, the visiting Cougars switched from man-to-man to a pressing defense. "We lost a little bit of our poise," said Leete. It threw us off and we missed a couple of layups and foul shots at the end that hurt us."

After George School's Len Betts had put George ahead with a layup in the last 10 seconds, Maguire deadlocked it with a 25-foot desperation shot at the buzzer. So close was the timing that the shot was allowed only after referee Norm Van Arsdalen questioned the timer about the position of the ball when the buzzer sounded.

In overtime, Leete reported his players "had nothing left." George School blanked Hun 5-0 for its win. "We should have won it," said Leete afterwards. Hun will get a second chance at George on February 20.

The big difference in the game was from the foul line, where George converted 25 of 31, contrasted with a like 2 for 2 effort by Hun. However, Hun controlled the Cougars' towering 6-7 center Sturges Warner, limiting him to eight points.

In one respect, Hun was noticeably off its pattern of previous play. Usually, the Red and Black has a balanced attack. With the exception of Maguire and Silverson (22), no other Hun player was able to score more than seven against George.

NCA DEFEATS ETS

In YMCA Basketball. A 48-23 victory over ETS last week kept NCA at the top of the five-team YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League.

High scoring Joe Cyborski again led the NCA pointmakers with 14. George Bignell put in eight for the losers. In the first half of the twin-bill, the Hospital, led by Willie Hafer, 20 points, trounced FMC, 69-55. Jerry Migliacci had 16 for FMC.

FMC is in third place with a 2-3 record, followed by ETS, 1-4 and RCA 0-4.

FLYING FISH WIN

In YMCA Meets. The Flying Fish girls team protected its undefeated season by defeating the Shore Area YMCA for its sixth consecutive victory. The boys team, now 1-5 on the year, dropped a meet 125-82 to the Pastiac-Clifton YMCA.

First place winners for the girls included: Susan Buhler, diving 12/under; Jackie Morgan, individual medley 13/17; Kathy Krauss, freestyle 10/under; Karen Ryan, freestyle 11/12; and Carrie Bolster, freestyle 13/14. Also picking up first place honors were Jenny Schwartz, Karen Ryan, Martha Lasley and Dede Hennemann in the 13/14 medley relay and Ann Middlebrook, Debbie Ryan, Jane Fremon and Mary Constable in the medley relay 13/17.

David Schmidt, Michael Martin, Steven Payne and Steven Cuhbert swam a winning time in the 13/14 medley relay for the boys team. Also winning were: Robert Poinsett, William Creil, Daniel Golden and Robert Neusel in the 15/17 medley relay. Chuck Hector in the 8-13 diving. Scott Bolster in the 14/17 diving and Andrew Bolster in the 11/12 breaststroke.

CLUBS TO SKI

At Elk Mountain. The Princeton and Trenton Ski Club will participate in a racing program Sunday at Elk Mountain in Uniondale, Pa. The race is being sponsored by the ski area whose officials are supervising the layout of the course.

Any Princeton resident who wishes to compete in the contest — scheduled to begin in the morning at 10 — should come to the Trenton Ski Club's meeting on Thursday at 9 p.m. in the Broomley Inn. Particlipants can also register for the event at Elk Mountain the morning of the race.

680 HIGH SET

By Marilyn Murphy. Marilyn Murphy's bowling average is 141. Last week, in the Princeton Women's Bowling League she forsook her average in spectacular fashion as she rolled games of 230-216-181 for an even 600.

Her 680 was the high series for the league this year. It also helped Cranbury Bank to record the high team game of 827 and the high team series of 2442.

The lone other game above 200 was Flo Evins' 202. Other high single games were rolled by Pat Brown, 193 (505); Sara Rose, 178; Flo Roberts, 174; Carol Osborn, 168, and Marilyn Silvester, 166. Alice Potts bowled a triplicate 132 and Marilyn Silvester converted the 3-10 split and Flo Roberts the 3-10.

In the standings, following position night, Hampshire House widened its lead to 46-42 over Mike's Sinclair and Kingsway Motors — the latter two tied for second. Rocky & Sons has 40 points. Rosso's Cafe, 36, and Cranbury Bank, 33.

COLLECTORS ON VIEW

Lend Their Art. Princeton art collectors have lent their contemporary sculpture and paintings to a show which will be on view at McCarter Theatre through February.

The show is being sponsored by the Princeton Art Association. Mrs. Stanton A. Waterman is chairman.

Artists represented are Calder, Man Ray, Balla, Cicchini, Ronald, Stanczek, Kavallon, Capagrossi, Warhol, Twambley, Morris, Anuszkiewicz and Lichtenstein.

Among those loaning works for the exhibition are Mr. and Mrs. John Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ruben, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Adriance, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. John Strasenburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Considine, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. George Pellettieri, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kane, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Peskin, Mr. and Mrs. James Burke.

GABRIEL GODARD

At Gallery 100. For three weeks ending February 3, Gallery 100 shows paintings and guaches by a young French painter, Gabriel Godard, who is associated with the David Findlay Gallery in New York City. Born at Delouze, Meuse, in 1933, Godard studied art on his own through his youth and, in the last ten years, has shown his work in various salons and group shows in Brussels, Berlin, London and throughout his native France.

Since 1957, he has given one-man shows in Paris, Toulouse, Nice and, more far-flung, in New York and Oklahoma. Honors won have matched step with his career beginning with the Prix de l'Amateur d'Art in '56, a later Prix de la Jeune Peinture and lately with the City of Paris and State, which purchased several of his paintings for the permanent collection of a provincial museum and the Modern Museum of Art in Paris.

The French Landscape. One can read in Gallery 100 an appraisal of Godard by his own countryman, a writer named Jean-Jacques Leveuque who considers his subject one of the most gifted of the younger French painters today. He appreciates his "spirit of freedom," a "controlled spontaniety," and admires his "breaking of the silhouette."

We follow with the first two qualities all right, and though we're not sure about the third, we do agree that in "Personnes dans les Rochers," which is one of the more important canvases shown, the figures count most "in position in space" and are, as such, a necessary part of the strong composition. In most of Godard's work, the picture hangs together in a composition which the eye can follow with interest. In his landscapes, it's like studying the ground from the air when divisions become fascinating in their own natural patterns and with these definitely French landscapes, it's reminiscent of floating gently over the chateau country in "Around the World in Eighty Days."

Gabriel Godard likes the paysage and both in guache and oil painting, he gets very much the same quality in design and color. The color has intensity, whether it be of the limpid blue-green range of river valleys or the bold, hot tones of harvest and sunset.

Somewhere along the line, he must have studied Cezanne and Van Gogh with interest, though it is quite evident he is not trying to paint "after either one. He uses a generous palette knife technique with a few telling accents and usually incorporates a feeling of action.

Two paintings are quite typical, "Mer Blanche," and "Vol de Muettes a Gormalon." The first is very bright but very light in key, painted simply, accenting only the motion of a slightly ruffled sea.

The "Vol" with a seashore rock the pivot for birds landing, taking off, fighting and fluttering, is as turbulent and noisy in color as the fact. We liked best a square-shaped paysage deliniating areas soft and quiet, accentuated by currents of wind, sunlight, and riotous vegetation in the foreground. This is probably the best example of our French critic's "controlled spontaniety," and the most evocative of French flavor.

NEW EXHIBIT TO OPEN

In Princeton Schools. A novel program for teaching art to school children will be unveiled in April at the John Witherspoon School. The State Museum in Trenton has compiled a selection of 40 panels of original graphic arts prints by contemporary artists which will be on loan to the Princeton Regional Schools for nine weeks.

The exhibit marks the first time that the Princeton Regional PTO's have sponsored an art show. The exhibit, never before circulated among New Jersey schools, will remain at Witherspoon School for three weeks before it is moved to the Middle School for three weeks followed by another three weeks at the Riverside School.

The program is designed to bring original art of high caliber to school children at all levels, from elementary grades through high school. Included in the exhibit are examples of prints in such varied media as relief, intaglio, collograph, lithograph and stencil.

Mrs. E. Frederick Laschever is serving as PTO chairman for the event with the assistance of Mrs. Archie Lummis.

They will supervise circulation of a teaching manual that accompanies the exhibit. The publicity committee will meet Wednesday, January 31, at 12:30 in the home of its chairman.

Serving on the publicity committee are: Mrs. Heinz Heinemann, chairman, Mrs. Winthrop S. Pike, Mrs. John Fenton, Jr., Mrs. Harry Freedman; Mrs. Walter Wilson and Mrs. Dennis Gray.

REGISTRATION OPENED

By Cooperative Nursery. Parents seeking to enroll three-year-old children at the Nassau Cooperative Nursery School should do so during February. Four-year-olds will be accepted after March 1.

The schools feature separate classes for each age group five mornings a week at the Stonybrook Friends' First Day School, Quaker Bridge Road. Mothers take turns assisting the teachers: Mrs. Arnold Pehta and Mrs. James Miller.

The school is located in an outdoor wooded setting encouraging outdoor activities such as nature walks. Arrangements for visiting may be made by calling Mrs. Jack Roomer, 924-7367, or Mrs. Zdenek David, 921-2691.

Arts Council to Meet

An open meeting of its board of trustees will be held by the Arts Council of Princeton beginning 8 p.m. Monday at the Public Library. All organizations and individuals interested in the performing and visual arts are urged to attend.

A non-profit organization, the council will serve all creative groups for the benefit of their members and the total community. Annual dues are $15 for organizations and $10 for individuals. Officers include: William K. Selden, president; Alan Downer, vice-president; Mrs. DeWitt Smith, treasurer; and Robert V. Dilley, secretary.

News Of The CHURCHES

VIETNAM MEETING SET By Clergy and Laymen. Mercer County Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam are preparing for a conference in Washington on February 5 and 6.

Reservations, due by next Wednesday, January 31, may be made through Stuart Ellis (452-9061), Barrie Peterson (452-8380) and Sam Leigh (882-5266), who are organizing transportation and accomodations.

An area caucus will be held at 5 on Saturday, February 3, in the lounge of the Princeton Seminary campus center for the purpose of formulating a position paper to be presented to Senators Clifford P. Case and Harrison A. Williams Jr. and Representative Frank Thompson Jr.

The mobilization in Washington is sponsored by an interdenominational committee. Members of the national leadership include President John Bennett of Union Seminary, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, S. J. Professor Robert McA. Brown of Stanford University, Rabbi Lelyvelt of the American Jewish Congress, Dr. Harvey Cox of Harvard Divinity School, Rev. Dana Greeley of the Unitarian Church and Yale Chaplain William S. Coffin.

About 50 residents of this area attended last year's conference, which drew more than 3,000 from all parts of the country. This year the speakers will include Senator Eugene McCarthy, Richard M. Nixon and the Rev. Martin L. King. Congressional visits, ecumenical worship, films and a "procession of agony" are planned.

SPECIAL SUNDAY: The Princeton YM-YWCA will receive special recognition this Sunday in Princeton churches. Ralph S. Mason, former ruling elder of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, is general chairman of the YM-YW building fund.

YMCA-YWCA SUNDAY SET In Princeton Churches. In recognition of the close relationship between the YMYWCA and the church, this Sunday has been designated at YMCA-YWCA Sunday in many of the churches in the Princeton community.

"We hope that on this special Sunday, all the people of Princeton will offer their prayers and support for the Ys," Ralph S. Mason, general chairman of the organizations' building fund drive, said.

"First, that they may continue to serve all the people of this community in the future as they have so well in the past. Secondly, that the current building fund campaign may be speedily and successfully ended, and the new facilities built, so that the Y can answer the immediate pressing needs of so many of our young people.

"And thirdly, that everything we do in working for youth and their futures may be done in God's Name and according to His holy will."

Many church leaders have chosen the topic of youth for their sermons this Sunday and are enclosing a special article on Y Sunday in their church bulletins.

Part of the article explains that the YMCA and the YWCA are not concerned with doctrine, leaving this area to the individual churches. The YM and YW, however, through their programs of training and leadership, try to induce in Princeton youth an awareness of the responsibilities of religion that should be carried out in all their actions.

TO HEAR CATHOLIC VIEW At Methodist Meeting. Rev. Mother Mary Cecelia Wheeler, religious superior of the Stuart School of the Sacred Heart, will speak before the WSCS of Princton Methodist Church at 8 p.m. next Thursday, February 1. Her subject is "Why Have a Protestant - Catholic Dialogue?"

Mother Wheeler will present her point of view, ending with several problems for exploration. Discussion follows. The meeting is open to women of all denominations.

The holder of a doctorate in philosophy from the Catholic University of America, Mother Wheeler has published articles "The New Scholasticism" and "The Thomist." For six years she edited the proceedings of the College Theology Teachers Society. Last summer she held a seminar at Stuart for 23 nuns who are teaching or supervising a philosophy course with the aim of developing a new approach to the subject.

TOWN LEADERS TO SPEAK In Penns Neck Church. "What's Ahead for West Windsor" is the topic this Sunday of the third of the mission series sponsored by Princeton Baptist Church at Penns Neck, Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church and Prince of Peace Lutheran Mission.

The speakers are Malcolm B. Roszell, mayor; W. Bradford Craig, school board, and Albert Zigler, planning board. A discussion session follows.

The gathering will be held in Princeton Baptist Church, Penns Neck, beginning with a light supper at 6 p.m.

Open to the interested public, the School of Mission will hold its final meeting on February 4. The joint planning board includes Mrs. Norman Nuding, Miss Mary Lou Sturgis, Mrs. Dorothy Mather, the Rev. James Weaver, the Rev. Walter Carvin and the Rev. John Pfisterer.

TO HOLD FIESTA At Lawrenceville Church. A "Mexican Fiesta" will be held at 7:15 this Friday by the Friday Night Social Group of Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church.

The program will begin in the church youth center. It includes a Mexican dinner and an illustrated talk by Dr. Wynford Harries.

Future plans of the group include a Valentine party, a catered dinner followed by a speaker and a spring dance. Officers are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ensminger, presidents; Colonel and Mrs. Clyde Townsend, program chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Towns, publicity; Miss Mary Torrey, secretary - treasurer, and Mr. and Mrs. John DeJong, membership. Inquiries and reservations are directed to the church office (896-1212)

DELEGATES NAMED To Anti-Johnson Group. Three delegates have been named by the Princeton Community Democratic Organization to attend a meeting Tuesday night of the Concerned Democrats of the Fourth District, an organization opposed to President Johnson.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at 8 p.m. in the Student Center at Rider College on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road.

Dr. Duane Lockard, professor of political science at Princeton, will speak on "Primary Election Techniques."

Tuesday's meeting will start a drive to elect anti-Johnson, anti-Viet Nam war delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Working committees from the four counties in the district — Mercer, Hunterdon, Sussex and Warren — will be formed to start the campaign.

Delegates from the Princeton Community Democratic Organization will be Archibald S. Alexander Jr. Mrs. Ann Ryan and Dr. Seymour C. Schuman. A spokesman for the P.C.D.O. said that the delegates will observe and report back to the Princeton group with possible recommendations.

At a meeting of the P.C.D.O. held last Wednesday, Murray Lampert, a member of the group also associated with the Concerned Democrats of the Fourth District, urged official P.C.D.O. of the Concerned organization.

However, membership of the P.C.D.O. decided not to make its support official, at least not at this time. Joseph Bash, Democratic County Chairman, has said he doubts whether anti-Johnson Democrats would get a delegate to the national convention. County chairmen for the Democrats have already pledged support to President Johnson at the national convention.

Anyone interested in the Concerned Democrats is invited to obtain additional information from Box 5365, Trenton, N. J. 08638.

McPHERSON TO SPEAK At Middle School Meeting. "Public Education and the Princeton Regional School" will be the topic of the next Middle School PTO meeting Thursday, January 25, at 8 p.m. in the Valley Road auditorium. Dr. Philip E. McPherson, Superintendent of Schools, will be guest speaker.

He will explain a few of his theories on public attention — paying particular attention to the problems faced in arranging the curriculum of the Middle School. Parents attending the meeting will have an opportunity to voice their own opinions on questions raised by Dr. McPherson.

FORUM SCHEDULED On Vietnam. The Princeton Jaycees have planned a forum for public discussion of America's involvement in Vietnam to be held at 8 p.m., Wednesday, February 14, at the Campus Center Auditorium of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Ralph C. Chandler, secretary of international affairs for the United Presbyterian Church of the USA, will be moderator. The panel will include Do Lenh Tuan, counsellor to the Permanent Observer of the Republic of Vietnam to the United Nations; H. Freeman Matthews of the State Department; Dr. Robert C. Tucker, professor of politics at Princeton University; and John E. Schrecker, instructor of modern Chinese history at Princeton. Allan Hendry is chairman of the forum.

HOW TO HIRE TEACHERS Report To be Made. A report on personnel and teacher recruitment for the Princeton Regional Schools will be made Tuesday by Russell Stanley, who has been in charge of this aspect of personnel for the schools.

Mr. Stanley will report at the regular 8 p.m. meeting of the board, to be held at Princeton High School.

The board will also hear reports on two research projects. John Damm and Nathan Kogan of Educational Testing Service, will give the results of their study examining the achievement motivation and performance of elementary school boys.

Honesty and its relation to achievement motivation is the subject of the second research project. The report will be given by David L. Rosenhan, associate professor of psychology at Princeton, and his student associate, Robert Phenix.

has unique bar with decorative brick base and formica top. 2 full baths. An excellent buy at this price.

Truly unusual individual interior layout design makes this new 3 bedroom ranch one of the most unique we've seen. A step-down living room, formal dining room, recreation area and kitchen; in parts a sunken effect found only in more expensive homes. Kitchen has snack bar with decorative brick base and formica top. 2 full baths. An excellent buy at this price.

One Palmer Square

GOLF COURSE . . . (the Hopewell Valley Golf Club, to be exact) is right across the road! Old Colonial with beautiful shade trees. Owner has devoted a great deal of thought and money to the modernization of this house. The result is a delightful place to live in with every modern convenience, yet the exterior and the grounds still retain the charm which always comes to mind when one hears about an old farm house in the country. And the size of the house, the proximity of the golf course, and the extremely favorable price make this one of the best buys we have on our list . . . Entrance hall, den with bookshelves, paneled dining room, living room with fireplace and built in bar, brand new kitchen, fully equipped. Second floor: master bedroom and bath, 4 nice bedrooms & bath. Almost an acre of land. (sole agent) $32,000

CLASSIC COLONIAL . . . In nearby Lawrence, on a high corner lot, this delightful red shingled home, with white shutters and trim, is only 6 years old. 23 foot living room with fireplace. Separate dining room. Sunny family room off the kitchen, with adjacent powder room. Full basement. 2-car garage. Upstairs: 4 corner bedrooms, 2 baths. This is a spacious home in a fine neighborhood with plenty of children. School within walking distance. Wall-to-wall carpeting included. Aluminum storms & screens. Quick occupancy as the owners are building a new and larger home and can move within 30 days. $34,000

LAWRENCEVILLE . . . 5 bedrooms, 2½ baths, Large Colonial, built in 1965, on a wooded acre. Entry hall, living room 13.4 x 23, dining room, family room with fireplace, modern kitchen, laundry & powder room. Central air-conditioning. Lovely patio. This is one of the beautiful homes in secluded "Longacres," adjoining a college campus, where all that Time can do to the property is make it more attractive . . . and more valuable. The owner has added many improvements to this property, and every mother will be delighted that there are lots of young children in this area and virtually no traffic on its quiet streets. $59,500

ELM RIDGE PARK . . . charming and brand new! 4 bedrooms, a den (or 5th bedroom) 2½ baths. Large living room, separate dining room, kitchen, ample breakfast space. 2-car attached garage. This is one of the last homes to be built in one of the most attractive, wooded residential neighborhoods in the Princeton area . . . Lots of children . . . Fine schools. $66,000

BUSINESS PROPERTY . . . In a nearby village, just outside Princeton, this corner property has 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths. Could be modified into a store or office, downstairs, with living quarters above. Enough land to make a parking lot in back. Ideal for doctor or dentist. $27,900

COUNTRY STORE . . . in one of the fastest-growing suburbs of Princeton, here is a real opportunity for a young couple to create one of those fascinating rural emporiums (cracker barrel & all!) which have become so smart — and so profitable! — nowadays. Ample living quarters upstairs. Also, another apartment to rent . . . and a "tax-payer" cottage. The lot is large enough to make a satisfactory parking lot . . . If you are not so young . . . if, indeed, you contemplate being an alumnus of the N.Y. commuter set, this may be the answer to the question of "How to Retire to the Country and Not be Forever Bored to Death." (Price on request)

Many more fine homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range.

The GREATEST . . . BEST . . . FASTEST . . . How many times have you seen and heard these words in ads selling service . . . we admit, we've used them ourselves. But we have found that you can't sell a service with superlatives! We simply say that we think our TV Repair Service is merely better than adequate . . . it's only GOOD.

We have trained, competent technicians with years of experience in their profession to back that statement.

And most of all, we have many satisfied customers . . . which is, after all, our ultimate goal!

Do us a service . . . call 921-8500 today so that we may serve you!

EVEN EL EXIGENTE WOULD APPROVE: The design, construction and location of this fine Princeton Township Cape Cod house. Built in the bygone days of slate roofs and plaster walls, it contains a large living room with fireplace, glass-walled conservatory (which could double as an unusual dining room) with second hearth, well-planned kitchen with comfortable breakfast space, 2 bedrooms and full bath on the ground floor. Upstairs, two twin bedrooms and another bath, plus large dormitory. Finished playroom in the daylight cellar. Tw car garage. Tree studded 3/4 acre within walking distance of all schools. $52,000

ROOM FOR ALL YOUR BOOKS: If you're starved for book space, we think you might be pleased to discover within this cheerful barn red colonial, a handsome study with fireplace and banks of floor to ceiling bookcases. For overflow, one wall of the living room is also well equipped. Besides these two rooms, there are a dining room with glass wall facing south across the garden, a well-equipped kitchen, laundry-utility room and lavatory on the ground floor. Upstairs, 3 double bedrooms and 1 single plus 2 full baths. Pull down stair to attic storage. Two car garage. On a quiet, wooded Princeton Township cul-de-sac. $49,500

LAKESIDE CONTEMPORARY: Nestled into one of the choicest bits of Lake Carnegie's wooded shoreline, this fascinating hillside house takes full advantage of its unique site. Everyone of its seven rooms and two baths shares the same panoramic view of trees and water. Living room and study, each with fireplace, dining room, equipped kitchen and utility room. 3 bedrooms. Carpeted and air-conditioned. A house to fall in love with $75,500

YOUR ANTIQUES WOULD LOOK MARVELOUS IN A MODERN HOUSE: Wouldn't your prize Oriental be spectacular against the grey stone floor of the entrance hall? And we think the glass walls and high ceiling of the living room would make a dramatic foil for any period. Whatever you do with it, a big, comfortable family room adjoining the kitchen will be the hub of the house both winter and summer when you open it to the broad flagstone terrace under the trees. Three airy bedrooms can be just as individual as you wish. 2 baths. Wooded 3/4 acre in Princeton Township. $59,500

IF YOU HAVE A THING ABOUT OLD HOUSES: This vintage example of stone and stucco in nearby Hopewell will delight you. Graced with very high ceilings, random pine floors, & long windows, its sunny interior has an air of elegance which is totally lacking in most small houses. There is a more than ample entrance hall, living room with floor-to-ceiling bookcases flanking a glass door to the terrace, separate dining room and charming country kitchen. Upstairs, 3 twin bedrooms and 2 full baths. Workshop, basement and 2 car garage All on a beautiful high lot of nearly an acre. One of a kind at $33,500

A ONE STORY SURPRISE IN THE WESTERN SECTION: You'd never guess to look at this rather demure grey house tucked into the woods that it contained no less than: living room and playroom each with fireplace, big, separate dining room with breakfast space for four, large master suite, plus 4 additional bedrooms and 2 more baths. All the rooms, with the exception of a couple of bedrooms, are quite spacious. 2 car carport. Lovely 3/4 acre. This house can't last for long in today's market. $53,000
